10 inmates shot, 28 hurt in prison disorder

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Ten inmates were shot and 28 persons injured during a six-hour upheaval at the Tennessee State Prison that began when an inmate complained about the substitution of cold bologna for pork chops for dinner, officials reported today.

Prison officials earlier today had said one prisoner suffered gunshot wounds in the disturbance that included looting of supplies and several fires. They later said the earlier estimate was made before they had time to check all the inmates for injuries.

Acting Warden Robert Morford said up to 350 prisoners of the institution's 2,200 inmates were involved in the melee that was quelled during the early morning hours. The gunshot wounds were from shotguns used by officers, prison officials said.

"When you have sufficient force, or indeed slightly more than what is sufficient, that is what is necessary to keep your casualty rate at a low figure, Morford said.

"It's when the forces, that is the forces trying to overcome the inmates, are outmanned... that you have panic and fear and sometimes overreaction," said Morford in explaining the need for the shooting.

At least 300 riot equipped city police officers and a small contingent of state troopers went to the 75-year-old facility to restore order.

James Gilchrist, a spokesman for the Corrections Department, said 36 of the injured were inmates. Two prison guards suffered minor injuries, he said.

Three of the inmates who were shot were admitted to city hospitals. Terry Shumate, 25, was listed in serious condition with gunshot wounds to the mouth, brain and heart. Napoleon Pollard, 22, was in stable condition with gunshot wounds in the abdomen. Bobby R. Smith, age unknown, was in fair condition with shotgun pellets in his chest and knee.

Two other prisoners were in hospitals for treatment of bites inflicted by guard dogs. A fifth, Jerry Duncan, 36, was being treated for a fractured skull, which prison officials said he suffered in a fall while trying to escape from a cell block that was burning.

The other injured prisoners were treated at the prison hospital and the extent of their injuries was not immediately known, said Gilchrist.

Morford said the guard involved in the dining room fight was placed on administrative leave pending completion of an investigation. He said the "preliminary finding is the guard did act improperly in the dining hall."

Beer garden decision put off by Dixon Park Board

By BILL SHAW

The Dixon Park Board, hampered by a "big chicken and egg" problem, elected Thursday night to postpone a decision on whether to allow a beer garden on park property next summer.

The issue was brought before the board in the form of a proposed ordinance drawn up by Tomas Magdich, attorney for the board. The ordinance would amend the park district's present ordinance which bans the sale or consumption of liquor on park property. Magdich informed the board that, if adopted, the amendment would allow the sale or consumption of alcoholic beverages only once per year, at only one location, and only by a "city fair group."

Magdich additionally submitted a proposal that would give a 40-year lease to the Petunia Festival Corporation. "I think it (a 40-year lease) can be done legally," Magdich advised the board. He then warned board members, "be cautious of entering into a long-term agreement. It would cut off the Park Board ability to review the program on a year-by-year basis."

Park Board member Pat Jones said "I couldn't vote for a 40-year lease without knowing all the implications."

Larry Bruckner, attorney representing the Petunia Festival Board, expressed the desire for a "firm commitment" from the Park Board in support of the festival before he could be specific about details.

Magdich labeled the situation a "big chicken and egg" problem. Although Bruckner sought prior commitment from the park district, Magdich said the Park Board comes first because members "want to know what they are getting into."

Discussion abruptly shifted to the specific beer garden issue, with each member explaining their position.

Pat Jones: "The beer garden wasn't a community disaster. It was enjoyment for some, others were able to have fun elsewhere. As far as we are concerned, the amendment is specifically limited to a 'city fair'... with no liability to any other case... that fact got cloudy before."

Jack Jordan: "My stand (opposing beer garden) was favorably supported... I received many calls praising my stand. I don't feel that a beer garden is a part of the recreation and leisure that we are supposed to be providing."

Louise Corken: "I was in favor of the beer garden to begin with. We have an obligation to satisfy everyone's recreation and leisure needs. I received unfavorable reaction concerning the Park Board's action. If we turn them down they may take the festival out of town. The whole town profits by the festival."

George Weigle: "The beer garden is here to stay. I would just as soon see the whole festival stay together. A split fair (some at Page Park and beer garden elsewhere) would be unfortunate. If it is a case of keeping the festival together, I would favor allowing the beer garden on park property. Page Park is an ideal spot for the whole fair."

President of the Park Board Ralph Contreras added: "I can't see bending our laws, for the President of the United States, the governor, or a 'city fair'."

Corken asked Contreras, "Do we have the right to amend our constitution?"

Contreras answered "Yes (legally), but in my conscience... No."

Contreras suggested that a matter such as an amendment to the park constitution be decided by a public referendum. Jones argued that "the public had an opportunity to make its opinions known," and indicated that it was up to the Park Board, elected as representatives of the people, to decide.

Jordan made a motion to table the ordinance decision until the next meeting, which is scheduled for Oct. 9.

The motion was passed unanimously. Weigle called for a definite decision one way or the other at the October meeting.

Jones expressed dismay concerning the Dixon Rural Fire Board's rumored attempts to gain use of Park District property for a new fire station. "I have been reading about it in the paper for some time... they should have contacted us directly."

Jones reminded the board that the parcel of land concerned was purchased with a grant from the Open Lands Act, with restrictions as to its use. Specifically, no permanent structures are to be built on the land. Jones added that Fire Board Atty. George Nichols' opinion that an arrangement could be worked out, as reported in the newspaper, was mis-interpreting the law. "We would jeopardize our property by allowing a fire station to be built," Jones commented. The federal grant, announced in February, 1972, authorized $67,000 in federal funds to be allocated toward the purchase of Borden Field.

Magdich indicated that he had been in contact with Nichols but did not elaborate on the nature of their discussions.

Four parents visited the board meeting to lodge a complaint against Merlin Willard, manager of Memorial Pool. Ray Lally brought to the board's attention action taken by Willard on the pool's closing day. According to Lally, Willard overreacted when "the kids had their traditional fun" on closing day, throwing lifeguards in the pool, etc. Willard called police and closed the pool early on that occasion. Kate Foley cited other instances when she felt that Willard acted improperly and called for his resignation.

The Park Board deferred any action on the complaint until hearing from Rich Sedowski, vacationing recreational superintendent, and from Willard.

Charles Ports, 1117 Peoria Ave., approached the board with an offer to pay half of the cost of a new fence separating his back yard with Highland Park. The fence would replace an older barbed wire version and cost $100 to the district. A decision by the board is to be issued in two weeks.

Lloyd Swan, parks superintendent, gave a pessimistic prediction on the future financial condition of Dixon park system. "We have far outgrown our ability to operate," Swan said. "Our everyday expenses have increased persistently, while our revenue remains the same."

Swan pointed to maintenance of new tennis courts and new lights at Reynolds Field as examples of increasing costs. "We operated at a deficit last year, and are continuing to do so now," he indicated.

Swan said that annexation of more land as a tax revenue base will help the situation, but state aid would also be required to balance the park budget. "Our last resort would be a referendum to increase taxes," Swan added.

The board additionally approved monthly expenditures of $3,576.72.

Political kickback probe

Not enough evidence to support charges

By LENNY INGRASSIA
A report conducted by the Office of Special Investigations into alleged political kickbacks in exchange for job security at the Dixon Developmental Center (formerly the Dixon State School) has determined there is not enough evidence to support charges made by David D. Considine, legislative aide to State Rep. Richard Mautino. Investigators did say, in the seven-page report, that Martin P. Okland's "denial of the charge is not credible."

Okland, a state-employed bricklayer, was accused by Considine of soliciting a $25 political contribution from Louis Wilhelm, a state maintenance equipment operator. The reported refusal of Wilhelm to pay the contribution led to his temporary dismissal from DDC, Considine charged at an accountability session with Gov. Dan Walker held in Dixon Feb. 13.

Investigators with OSI, under the direction of Donald P. Moore, interviewed more than 30 state employees and private citizens.

The report charged "Okland did solicit a political campaign contribution from Wilhelm in violation of the Governor's Executive Order. While the amount of money involved was trivial, the violation is clear," Moore said.

Moore's accusation, in the report, was not followed by any recommendation of formal charges against Okland. The denial by Okland "is impeached by other evidence in addition to Wilhelm's statement."

Investigators said Okland's initial response to Considine's charge was he (Wilhelm) "has no witnesses." Okland, later in the interview, stated he "could not recall the incident—I don't know where I was two days ago so how would I know this," the report explained.

DDC Supt. David Edelson said this morning he is discussing possible action based on the report "with state department officials." Edelson said he would have a statement to make this afternoon on the matter. He would not confirm whether his office would take action against Okland.

Investigators also learned that Okland did conduct a series of brief meetings in the school boiler room during normal working hours. "Although OSI was unable to prove what went on, these meetings might well have been political in nature.—But the charge cannot be proved."

Lee County Democratic chairman Jim G. Burke is cited in the report for inquiring about Wilhelm's job status shortly after the date on which Wilhelm states he rebuffed Okland's request for funds, allegedly on Burke's behalf.

Wilhelm told investigators that after he was approached for the contribution, in early December, 1974 his anger prompted him to call Burke. Wilhelm said Burke told him to give any amount he wanted.

Burke, questioned by investigators said he remembered the telephone call from Wilhelm but did not recall any mention of Okland. "Okland says he cannot recall soliciting any money from any person for any political purpose in recent years."

Burke said today "it has never been a condition of the Lee County Democratic Party or me as chairman that a person had to contribute money to get a job with the state or to contribute money to keep a job with the state. I will defy any state employee to come forward and contradict this statement."

Wilhelm was hired at DDC on June 19, 1974 on a six-month temporary appointment from the Department of Mental Health. In early December a review of Wilhelm's personnel records determined he had not taken a civil service examination for the post.

Alerted of the failure to take the test, Joseph Davidson, special assistant to the deputy director of DMH instructed personnel officials in Dixon in late January to take action to terminate Wilhelm.

Ford may be wearing bullet-proof vest now

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — President Ford's security agents appear to have outfitted him with a protective vest to wear on ventures into crowds after a woman aimed a gun at him at close range last week.

Aside from that, security procedures were changed little Thursday as the President campaigned through southern New Hampshire, making 22 stops on a day-long tour to boost Republican Louis C. Wyman's chances in next Tuesday's special U.S. Senate election.

Ford displayed the same zest for shaking hands and mixing with crowds as he has on previous trips, and the cordon of a half-dozen agents around him was the same as in the past.

However, the outlines of what appeared to be a protective vest were visible clearly through the back of Ford's jacket and his shirtfront was stretched tautly across his chest.

White House officials and Secret Service agents in the presidential party refused to confirm or deny that Ford was wearing a vest. It was his first extended trip since the arrest last Friday in Sacramento, Calif., of Lynette A. Fromme, a follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, after she pointed a pistol at Ford at close range.

But several aides stressed that, if such a security procedure had been instituted, they would not be free to talk about it. Asked who would know, deputy presidential Press Secretary William I. Greener said, "Nobody who could tell you."

One agent, asked about the matter, said, "He may be wearing something that's not normal." He declined to elaborate.

Normal security procedures during the day included a helicopter that circled over the motorcade route and the blocking off of sections of the towns in advance of the President's arrival.

Large numbers of state and local police instituted strict security in several places. At one point along the route, a policeman crouched across the road, facing a wooded area and pointing a rifle at it.

One object of special security was Linda Kasabian, a former follower of Manson who has returned to her native New Hampshire.

Police records on Chappaquiddick incident mysteriously missing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Original police records on the Chappaquiddick incident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy are still missing, despite assertions by two former police chiefs that they were returned to the files last April.

Officials of the Edgartown police department at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., say they cannot find the documents. "We've looked everywhere. We honestly don't know where they are," Patricia McLeod, a special police officer, said in a telephone interview.

The mystery of the vanished records was raised recently in a book by Carl Gottlieb, a script writer for the movie "Jaws" which was filmed at Martha's Vineyard last summer.

Gottlieb said he had been told by Jesse Oliver II, then the chief of the 12-member Edgartown police department, that the records of the 1969 auto accident that cost the life of Mary Jo Kopechne had disappeared from the files.

However, between the time that Gottlieb talked with Oliver and the book was published, the missing documents—including the original accident report and a copy of Kennedy's first statement to police—were said to have been returned to the department.

Dominick J. Arena, who was Edgartown's police chief at the time of the Chappaquiddick incident, said in another interview that when he quit the department in 1973, he took some of the records with him.

Now police chief in Essex Junction, Vt., Arena said he wanted the papers for his own

Four words in report trigger White House call for its return

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford asked the House intelligence committee to return secret information to the administration today on grounds it improperly disclosed four words to the public.

The President's request was delivered to the committee by Asst. Atty. Gen. Rex Lee, who said the improper disclosure of the secret material was contained in a release issued by the House panel Thursday.

Lee said the information involved inaccurate intelligence reports about the outbreak of the 1973 Middle East War.

Material made public by the committee was decided upon in agreements worked out between congressmen and intelligence officials.

But Lee said four words released by the committee were not cleared by intelligence officials and they could cause irreparable harm to Ford's conduct of foreign policy.

"The President's responsibility for the national security of the United States leaves him no alternative but to request the immediate return of all classified information previously provided this committee," Lee said.

Lee said intelligence agencies would withhold any further information from the committee until the congressmen agreed not to release more information without specific administration approval.

"All agencies respectfully decline to furnish classified material until the committee satisfactorily alters its position," Lee said.

Scot oil strikes may turn nation around

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
PORTOBELLO, Scotland— This is the birthplace of Great Scotsman Sir Harry Lauder, who thrilled millions throughout the English-speaking world with the marvelous songs of his homeland.

The late Sir Harry's friends are legion in this quaint and charming town. There are few callings in which it is harder to survive; nearly overnight the bottom can fall out of the performer's boat. And to have brought such joy to generation after generation in the ancient and turbulent world of the stage, so old that no one can give the date of its beginning, is its own tribute.

His passing broke a link with an era. Sir Harry's early New York was the vibrant, poignant city of O. Henry's "Four Million," of "Florodora," Maude Adams' "Peter Pan," Delmonico's restaurant, hansom cabs and the great Broadway favorite Sir Harry Lauder singing "I Love a Lassie."

His Portobello friends tell me that Sir Harry was fond of telling of the lamplighter in this Scotland town.

At dusk every day the old man would put a ladder against a light pole and climb up to light the lamp. When he had lighted that one, he climbed down his ladder and carried it to the next lamppost. "Finally," Sir Harry said, "the old man would be out of sight. But you could always tell where he went by the lamps he had lighted—the lesson of good people everywhere."

Sir William Wallace, Scotland's great patriot, defeated the British at the Battle of Stirling in 1297. He swung his claymore like King Arthur in mist-shrouded Avalon. The word claymore means "great sword." It was an immense, double-bladed steel weapon, held in both hands and capable of chopping a tree. Soon it was somewhat refined to a blade with a single edge and a big basket hilt.

There are 22 million men and women of Scottish descent in the United States; about 75 per cent of President George Washington's first Cabinet were Scotsmen. And each year the distinguished American-Scottish Foundation under The Lady Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton presents its Wallace Award to outstanding Americans of Scottish descent who are contributing importantly to the character, well-being and leadership of the United States.

The year 1297 is certainly long ago and Wallace's victory at Stirling may seem vague and remote to us in America. But not here in Scotland. His victory paved the way for independence when Robert Bruce, whose heart is buried in the Chapel of nearby Cullen House, scored his decisive victory at Bannockburn 17 years later.

History, like wind, moves, at different speeds around the world and Scotland today is a country of amazing hope and excitement.

Scottish textiles and whiskey are internationally sought, but coal has always been this country's chief mineral resource. However, the great Lanark County coalfields are almost exhausted and what mining remains has been reduced to the Lothians, Fife and Ayr Counties.

Came tragic, prolonged depression—and much migration abroad from the Lowlands and Highlands of this lovely land.

Now you feel the air charged with expectation and anticipation. The Scots are staying home to make good in the Scotland they love so well. You find a sense of activity all around you as satisfying as the growth of a great vintage in a vineyard. But you must be here to feel it.

The magic word is oil.

The North Sea waters are dangerous and the first whisper of oil discovery came from beneath them. This was off this country's northeast coast. It centered on the city of Aberdeen. Then immense strikes of oil were found throughout the entire northern regions. The far-off Shetland Isles is a center. Now even more oil is being discovered down the West Coast of Scotland to Argyll.

When Sir Harry Lauder sang "Let's do it, or die," he was quoting Bobbie Burns. The Scots are now filled with new plans ideas, incentives. Optimism has replaced pessimism after generations of apparently insuperable difficulties that confronted these valiant, marvelous Scottish people.

Voice of the people

Appreciates beautification

Sometimes it is difficult to know who to thank for improvements made in the safety and beauty of our community. For example, I do not know who is responsible for the marking of street sewer grates with yellow paint, but it was a constructive step for which all cyclists must be grateful.

I was glad when it was suggested that an experiment be tried with a farmer's market. The market has undoubtedly been successful. There must be many of us who are grateful for the work that has been done by a few to develop this service.

The destruction of the old Metal Specialties building across from the library has vastly improved the appearance of the downtown area. I hope it will be properly landscaped and that the City will never open another parking lot without adequate landscaping. Concrete and black-topping need to be balanced with trees and shrubs. (Note university of Illinois parking areas.)

I appreciate the steps taken to improve the appearance and safety of our community. I wish it were possible to get the merchants of Dixon to do away with the jungle of signs hanging over the sidewalks as one or two have done. Now that would be an improvement!

Sincerely,
Tom W. Shepherd

Praises our petunias

When we drive up to Delavan, Wis., on Ill. 2 we often go through your town, and we always enjoy the petunias along the parkways. They are a delight. I hope you always keep them up. They are so refreshing on a warm day.

Thank you.

We went through your lovely little town this past summer and was absolutely enthralled with the lovely borders of petunias you had all along your downtown area. It is something well worth other towns copying. What a refreshment it was and so refreshing and even a cooling breath as we traveled south in the heat.

Have thought of your town many times and have wanted to let you know we DID appreciate all the efforts put into welcoming outsiders. I do hope others will write and let you know also.

REFLECTIONS— President Ford and Congress are playing politics at the expense of the good of the people.

The President's win in the failure to overturn his veto of the domestic oil price control may be a hollow one in the long run, but on the other hand it seems to be as much of Congress's fault as the White House's that the matter came to a showdown.

In the wake of Wednesday's vote some Democratic senators and representatives were heard to say a compromise must be made with the Chief Executive to avoid catastrophic increases in gasoline and heating oil prices.

That talk seems like talking about locking the door after the horse has been stolen.

In fairness to the President it must be noted he has been willing to compromise with Congress. Ford has said he would accept up to a 39-month phase out of price control of domestic oils.

Many Democratic members of Congress were willing to go along with him while some held out for a 45-month phase out and others were simply against decontrol.

The issue is domestic produced oil is pegged at $5.25 per barrel, while there is no price ceiling imposed on oil exported. The present rate the Arabs are charging is more than $13 a barrel.

The fear concerning immediate decontrol of domestic oils is companies will rapidly escalate their prices up to the world market price, and, this is a legitimate concern.

Perhaps domestic oil prices should not have been controlled but they have been and were when the world oil price went wild two years ago as the Arabs quadrupled the price of their oil after an embargo against the U.S.

The energy problem is real and the administration argues domestic oil production will not be increased so we can become more independent of oil exports and that allowing the prices of gasoline to rise will cut down consumption of the fuel because Americans will drive less and buy smaller autos.

Those who distrust the multinational oil companies and the government's ability to, in any way, protect consumers from their quasi-cartel abilities to unduly gouge consumers are very fearful of any decontrol of domestic oil.

More realistically, public pressure and perhaps some governmental urging should keep fuel prices from hitting the highs expected by the more fearsome judgments.

Also, demand for fossil fuel here and abroad has been reduced and the Arabs cannot sell all they want to produce and the time will come when the world price of oil must have some relationship to what the demand and supply situation sets the price.

Finally, domestic spending has expanded so rapidly in the oil-rich Arab countries since they began to reap windfall profits, that their huge resources are not piling up as fast as at first.

Burgeoning consumer and government spending in the Arab countries will probably continue to escalate. Witness what happened in the U.S. during the heady growth years from 1960 through 1972.

This will put some pressure on the Arabs which were not present when they first capriciously embargoed oil exports to friends of Israel and skyrocketed the price when they turned the spigot to let the oil flow. Like a person who has become accustomed to live according to his income, it is difficult for him to be arbitrary about anything which would threaten to scale down his income.

The sense of going slow on anything which would cause oil prices to rise which could dwarf the budding recovery and provide some feeling of relief for the ordinary citizen was lost in the power struggle which went on in the capital.

Ford has to make "brownie" points quickly to ward off a challenge from the Republican right, probably from Ronald Reagan, and he is being very political with an issue which deserves to be handled with bipartisan wisdom.

Cleaning up grass roots

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Most states, and numbers of counties and cities, are far ahead of the United States government in laws attacking conflicts of interest and corruption among office holders.

At least 30 states now have such laws. So do a fist-full of local governments.

But in all too many cases, even the well-written laws go unenforced. Most state and local prosecutors ignore corruption—if it's political. To act would involve prosecuting friends and associates.

Ethics committees, appointed to watchdog state legislatures, likewise have been snail-like in enforcing the rules governing financial disclosure and financial conduct for state legislators.

Sometimes, federal officers move in when locals fail to act. As in New Jersey and in Baltimore County, Maryland. But these cases are few and far between. And the federal officers, of course, cannot by any stretch of power, enforce state laws. Federal law, what there is of it, is filled with loopholes.

But who then will enforce federal corrupt practices, financial disclosure and conflict of interest laws? That is, if Congress ever stops its dilly dallying and comes up with adequate rules governing the ethics and the financial disclosure of Washington lawmakers, officials of the executive departments, and the military.

The answer is probably appallingly simple. Even if the laws are written with care and precision—and there is no evidence of this to date in the bills now before Congress—they will not be enforced, except in rare instances. The record of the Department of Justice has not been good in political crimes. Despite Watergate, the attorney general's batting average is not likely to improve greatly, especially when it comes to investigating, prosecuting and convicting U.S. congressmen.

This means that if we are to get the laws required, and see to their enforcement, individual citizens and citizen groups, and whichever political party is out of power at the moment, will of necessity bring these cases to public attention and see that they are brought to trial in whatever court is appropriate. The press is one of the most important of these groups, and it is certain that if we are to have effective enforcement of conflict of interest laws and a major reduction of political crime, more newspapers must of necessity hire additional reporters free to take the time to dig where prosecutors are unwilling to go. Politicians are not going to police themselves, except in rare instances for short periods. There have been Watergates before, with nothing done.

This is not to despair. As Common Cause reports, of the 14 independent state ethics commissions monitoring state conflict of interest and financial disclosure laws, 11 have been established in the last 36 months. Half of the 30 state laws which require public officials to disclose financial interests have been put into force in the same short three years, including most of the more rigorous.

The California Political Reform Act, approved by 70 per cent of the state's voters, was passed in June, 1974. In November, 1972, 72 per cent of Washington State's voters put into effect a law requiring state and local elected officials to file each year a sworn statement of financial affairs. South Dakota, in 1974, passed a sweeping law which includes candidates for Congress, as well as state elected and appointed officials.

The evidence is not all in, but it seems clear that most of the 30 state laws were rammed through by public pressure.

Busing set off more white flight?

By DON OAKLEY

The future course of efforts to eliminate racial segregation in the public schools of America by means of busing may well be determined this fall. For the first time in the 21 years since the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its landmark decision in Brown vs. Board of Education, significant attempts to implement that decision in cities outside the deep South are being undertaken.

As events in Louisville have demonstrated, the strife that accompanied large-scale busing in Boston last year was not the North's first and last stand, as Little Rock was the South's in 1957.

Yet even if busing plans were to proceed smoothly in Detroit, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Dallas and other cities facing varying degrees of desegregation effort for the first time, the ultimate result could be only greater segregation in the form of accelerated white flight from the cities to the suburbs.

One who fears this eventuality is University of Chicago sociologist James S. Coleman. His research shows that in those large cities that were undergoing some desegregation during 1968-73 there was considerably greater loss of children from the school systems than would be expected from the rate of loss of white children from nondesegregating systems.

The loss was especially great in a few cities undergoing significant desegregation. For example, Atlanta, whose segregation between 1970 and 1973 was reduced by almost half, lost 51 per cent of its white population. Memphis, where segregation was reduced by two-thirds, lost 47 per cent.

Civil rights activists don't quite know what to make of Coleman these days. As author of a study in 1966 that found that children from disadvantaged backgrounds did somewhat better in school than were predominantly middle class (and thus in most cases predominantly white) than in school that were all lower class, he gave them valuable pro-busing ammunition. Now he seems to be aiding and abetting the foes of desegregation.

For Coleman, however, the question is not only that of just and desirable ends but of just and desirable means to achieve those ends. The issues in school integration have been distorted, he says, and a proper policy for the country requires that we clarify those issues.

There have been, in both the North and the South, actions by school authorities designed to increase segregation, such as by gerrymandering school districts. This kind of segregation is no different from the dual systems outlawed by the Supreme Court in 1954, and if school systems fail to eliminate the effects of these actions, the courts should intervene to do so.

But there is in addition school segregation due to individual actions, primarily decisions by white families about where to live. For this second source of segregation there is no issue of equal protection under the 14th Amendment and dealing with it is not the proper sphere of the courts, says Coleman.

The courts in recent years, however, have gone beyond eliminating segregation due to state action and have tried to eliminate that caused by individual action as well. "When courts do this—all the while ignoring the legitimate concerns of white parents—de facto segregation is simply reinstated another way. That is white flight."

It's time, he says, to recognize that some problems don't have instant solutions. In the matter of racial integration what is necessary is to work at approaches that may take time but provide a stable solution. Fundamentally, it is a matter of finding ways to make the central city attractive to whites, to make the suburbs available to middle-class blacks and to provide jobs for lower-class blacks.

"What's wrong with busing," says Coleman, "is that it's a restriction of rights. We should be expanding people's rights, not restricting them."

Scarboro Community Church plans centennial observance Sept. 21

By VERA CHAMBERS
Former members and friends of the Scarboro Community Church are cordially invited to share in the observance of the centennial of the building and dedication of the church Sept. 21. Worship services will be at 10:30 a.m. A scramble dinner is planned for noon.

Following the dinner, there will be a program which will include music and brief remembrances by some of the former pastors.

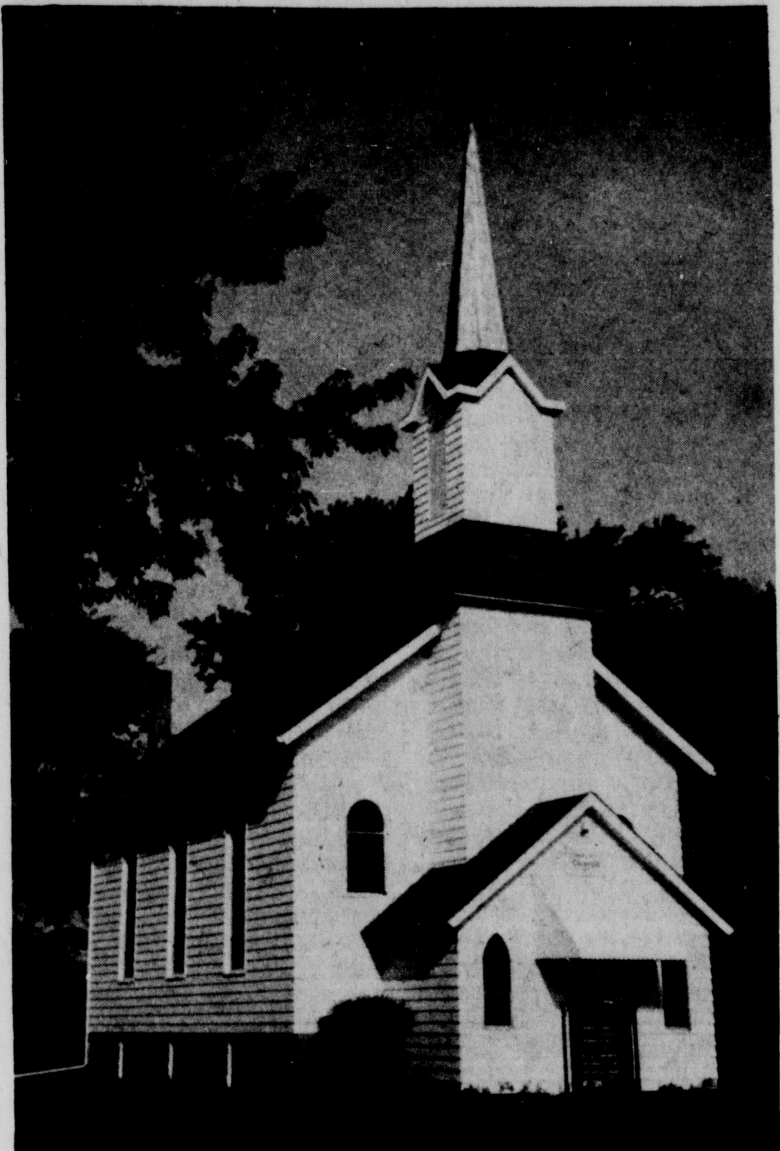

The work of the Evangelical Church in Willow Creek Township, Lee County, dates back to the early 1860's, when preachers of the Illinois Conference entered into this community. The services were held every two weeks and conducted in the German language.

In 1870 the Rev. F. F. Schnee, pastor of the Monroe Circuit, organized a prayer meeting class. William Dunkelberger was elected Class Leader and John Yetter as Exhorter. Worship was conducted in private homes, but for the greater part of the time at the Byrd school house.

In September of 1874, a meeting was called to consider the building of a church. The building was heartily approved and the following members were elected to serve as a building committee: John Yetter, William Dunkelberger, John Hochstrasser, J. L. Lutz and G. Hochstrasser.

On Oct. 19, 1874 the church was incorporated and named, "The Zion Church" of the Evangelical Association.

Oct. 26, 1874 the building committee purchased a corner acre of land from J. Byrd for the sum of $55. In the spring of 1875, J. J. Meyers was contracted to build the church.

Scarboro Community Church

In Nov., 1875 the church was dedicated by the Bishop J. J.

Esher and the Rev. J. Schaeffe, presiding Elder.

In 1879 the name of the circuit was changed from Monroe to Rochelle and was comprised of the following churches: Holcomb, Lee, Malta and Willow Creek. In 1903 the name of the circuit was, again, changed from Rochelle to Malta but comprised of the same churches.

In 1907 it was deemed necessary to move the church in order to perpetuate its existence. The town of Scarboro, a mile and a half southwest of the church, had come into existence and was looked upon as advantageous. The pastor, the Rev. E. E. Plapp, and congregation began investigating the cost of such a move.

The move did not occur, however, until February 5, 1912, under the pastorate of the Rev. W. H. Krueger and particularly the efforts of the Rev. I. L. Schuetzler. G. W. Durin generously donated a half acre of land to which the church was moved. At conference that year, the name of the church was changed from Willow Creek to Scarboro. In 1916, conference made Scarboro a separate charge and provided the Rev. A. K. Speilberger, as student pastor. During this time a lighting system was installed.

In the spring of 1918, the church purchased property from Dave Wilman for construction of a parsonage. At this time the Rev. H. E. Kasch was assigned to serve in Scarboro. This year "Found our nation engaged in the great World War. Our people were loyal to the government and did their part in contributing to the various organizations and in purchasing Government bonds" for which Federal recognition was received. The Fall of 1920 brought the installation of electric lights.

The church kitchen was built in 1938. The women were excellent cooks and served many fine meals which enhanced fellowship, as well as, provided some additional funds for operation.

Eldon V. Schriver was recommended for licensure as a minister in 1941 and completed all requirements in April, 1942. The new parsonage was dedicated May 20, 1951 under the pastorate of the Rev. Melvin L. Shafer. New stained glass windows were installed in December, 1967 as memorials to current and past members. The Rev. C. A. Rieder was pastor at this time.

Eugene Arnold was recommended as a candidate for the ministry on March 2, 1969 by the members of the congregation. He has successfully completed his education in the ministry and has been ordained.

The church continues to play an active part in the community and its influence is broadened by persons who have left the area, but who were formerly a part of the generations who have "built" this church.

South America tour, program planned

A mission tour of South America next February is being hosted by the Rev. William H. Swarbrick, senior pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Dixon, and the Rev. Rudolf K. Markwald, former missionary to Chile and now pastor of North Austin Lutheran Church in Chicago.

A meeting is being held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., in the fellowship hall of St. Paul Lutheran Church, 421 Peoria Ave., for any interested in the tour and the program of the evening.

Two 27 minute movies will be shown during the program to which the public is invited.

One of the films is "The Ancient Peruvians," a National Geographic film which explores the art, architecture, religions and society of pre-Columbian culture in Peru, concluding with a brief study of the Incas.

The other film is "South America," which depicts the history and daily life of the people of South America, and their efforts to establish order and sound economics after a background of feudalism.

After the films the Rev. Mr. Swarbrick will give a brief presentation of recent developments in South America and the role of the church there, both past and present.

The tour, which departs from Chicago on February 10, 1976 for 23 days will be to Peru, Bolivia, Chile, Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil. All inclusive cost of the tour is $1,795.

The best of South American sightseeing will be included in the itinerary including such things as Machu Picchu (lost city of the Incas high in the Andes), Lake Titicaca, Iguassu Falls, the Amazon River, the lake district of Chile and Argentina, Brazilia and the other capital cities.

Church mission visits will include interviews with Helmut Frenz, Bishop of the Lutheran Church of Chile, and Juan Cobrada, President of the Lutheran Church in Argentina. Seeing the work of the church in South America will provide for more personal contact with local people than is the case in ordinary tours.

A brochure with complete details will be available at the Tuesday meeting or by contacting Pastor Swarbrick who has hosted seven tours the past seven years during his vacations through Europe, Africa and the Orient.

His co-host, the Rev. Mr. Markwald, will be remembered by local residents as pastor some years ago of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Nachusa. He served as a missionary in Chile for five years in the 1960's and is well versed in the language and culture of South America.

SEE AUTUMN'S BEAUTY THROUGH EYES OF FAITH

The climax in our orbit of the sun
Is when at last the summer days are done;
When shades of green give way to autumn's gold,
The richest of the seasons will unfold.
The leaves become arrayed in brilliant hue,
Before their turn to disappear from view
In brief descending spirals through the air,
Propelled by winds that strip the branches bare.
Through eyes of faith you'll see this all displayed;
The wonders of this world that God has made
Are never more alive than in the fall;
Through Church, you will appreciate them all.

The Doctor Says:-

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 67 years of age and was a business woman for the last 30 years. My work was my entire life. About 10 years ago I had one thyroid gland removed. Two years later I had the other removed. I also sold my business with plans to travel.

Three months after the second thyroid operation I had been put on no medication, and I was so weak I could hardly walk, speak, or think. When I made the doctor realize how weak I was, both physically and mentally, he had tests run on me. The blood tests showed I was in the danger zone for both calcium and phosphorus. I was diagnosed as having hypocalcemia and hypoparathyroidism.

The doctor put me on calcium which helped very little until he added dihydrotachysterol. The treatment gradually corrected my blood level of both calcium and phosphorus. But, I have never gotten rid of all the muscle spasms, particularly in the leg and arm muscles. It is very painful and a great effort to walk up stairs and get up from sitting in a low chair.

My doctor said that when I had the thyroid operation the parathyroid glands must have been removed, and there was no function from them.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Sept. 12, the 255th day of 1975. There are 110 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1944, the first American troops reached German soil in World War II.

On this date: In 1814, American forces successfully defended Baltimore against the British in the War of 1812.

In 1869, the National Prohibition party was organized in Chicago.

In 1943, during World War II, dictator Benito Mussolini was rescued by German paratroopers from a hotel in Lake Bracciano, Italy, where he was being held prisoner by the Italian government.

In 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur had the secret Black Dragon society dissolved in Japan and many of its leaders arrested.

In 1953, Sen. John F. Kennedy, D-Mass., married Jacqueline Bouvier in Newport, R.I.

In 1964, dissident army officers tried, without success, to overthrow the government of South Vietnam.

Ten years ago: An estimated 75 persons were killed when Hurricane Betsy hit Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Five years ago: Palestinian guerrillas blew up three hijacked airliners on the Jordan desert.

One year ago: Marcus Wayne Chennault was sentenced to death in Atlanta for murdering Dr. Martin Luther King's mother and a Baptist church deacon.

Today's birthdays: Former Olympic track star Jesse Owens is 62 years old. Publisher Alfred Knopf is 82.

Thought for today: When I became president, what surprised me most was that things were just as bad as I'd been saying they were. — John F. Kennedy.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, it was announced that 10,000 stands of arms and six light artillery pieces would be sent for use in North Carolina, where Gov. Martin claimed a large body of loyal subjects would oppose the rebels with military force.

I would like your opinion on the prognosis of my problem and the effects of dihydrotachysterol. Is there any other drug to use with at least the same effect or better? The spasms have begun in the organs as well, and I can do little exertion because of shortness of breath.

My doctor had me do without the use of any drug except thyroid tablets to see if I could do without, but I am getting very weak and depressed.

DEAR READER — You have a rare condition. The tiny parathyroid glands are like small buttons imbedded in the edge of the thyroid gland. Incidentally, you must have had a lobe or part of the thyroid removed the first time and more the second time as there is only one thyroid gland. Rarely the parathyroid glands are injured or removed when the thyroid gland is removed.

Shortly after surgery a patient may appear to have low or absent parathyroid function but regain it in time. This is why your doctor took you off treatment, to find out if you had recovered.

The parathyroid glands regulate the level of calcium and phosphorus in your blood. When they are not functioning the level of calcium falls markedly. Increased bone density from deposition of calcium and arthritis-like changes may occur.

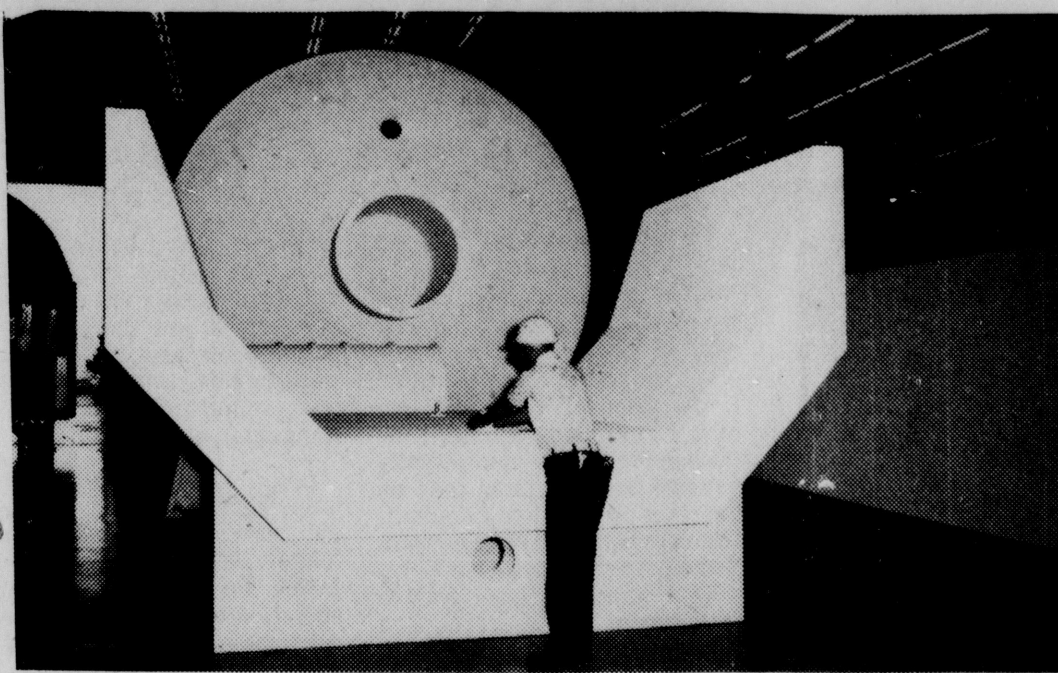

The usual symptoms are muscle spasms, cramps, mental confusion, difficulty in breathing, sometimes with spasm of muscles related to breathing, nausea, vomiting, lethargy and a host of other symptoms similar to what you describe. The symptoms can be relieved with adequate treatment.

Initially some doctors use intravenous calcium and vitamin D to raise the blood level of calcium and lower the level of phosphorus at once. After that the usual treatment is with dihydrotachysterol. This is a hormone that raises blood calcium and is very useful.

The prognosis is excellent, with expectation that such a person will live a normal, full life span if properly treated. You should see your doctor at once, though, because of your return of symptoms. He will probably want to put you back on treatment.

Gold rush proves to be more of a creep

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It was as if a great gong were struck and gave off no sound, or some fireworks were lofted into the sky and no bursting kaleidoscope showered down.

The "great gold rush of 1975" turned out to be a creep, said an important gold dealer. There was no rush, no eagerness to own the precious metal that in bullion form had been banned to Americans for 41 years.

Rescinding of that ban last Dec. 31 was accompanied by great excitement and expectations of a rush to gold dealers. Many had expected people even would draw money from savings accounts to buy gold. Hucksters forecast big price rises.

The peak price, around $190 an ounce, was reached just about the time the public was permitted to buy bullion, which is the metal in its rather plain, unfabricated, bar or wafer form. The price this week was around $150. Some boom!

What killed the "gold boom?" Herbert Coyne and Irwin Shisko, vice presidents of J. Aron & Co., an old-line merchant banking firm which puts industrial and commercial buyers and sellers together — they are more or less disinterested observers of retail markets — give this assessment:

There was a lack of tradition of gold ownership in the United States. Americans apparently are unlike Europeans, who tend to place great faith in the ability of gold to retain its value during inflation or collapse.

But even before the lifting on the ban on bullion, Americans were permitted to own certain gold coins. Many smart people already had satisfied their longing for gold by purchasing these coins. They didn't have to wait until Dec. 31.

Thirdly, the price of gold kept rising, and Americans are wary of buying items on the rise. Sometimes they might conclude that prices, though high, might continue rising. This time they didn't think so. They were correct.

Finally, there were too many "anxiety elements" to owning gold. "There was a carnival atmosphere, a feeling that flamboyant operators would bilk the public." There was a fear of financially weak dealers going bankrupt.

There were fears also that bars of alloys would be plated

Volume of mail critical of First Lady's comments

By ANN BACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford's comments on premarital sex generated nearly 28,000 letters and telegrams, more than two-thirds of which were critical of her remarks.

Sheila Weidenfeld, Mrs. Ford's press secretary, said Wednesday that the first lady is answering this mail which, to date, includes "8,000 pros and 19,500 cons."

Mrs. Ford's letter to her critics explains that she does not believe in premarital sex, but that she realizes that many in today's generation do not share her views.

Answering an interviewer's question last month in which her 18-year-old daughter, Susan, was used as a hypothetical example, Mrs. Ford said she would not be surprised if Susan were to tell her at some point that she was having an affair.

She added, "...I would certainly counsel and advise her on the subject."

Mrs. Weidenfeld said the first lady will answer all of her mail and believes her original remarks were misunderstood. Although Mrs. Weidenfeld declined to make the letter public because "this is a response to those who have written," she confirmed that Mrs. Ford is an swering many of the letters this way:

"I wish it were possible for us to sit down and talk with one another. I consider myself a responsible parent. I know I am a loving one. We have raised our four children in a home that believes in and practices the enduring values of morality and personal integrity."

"I want my children to know that their concerns, their doubts and their difficulties, whatever they may be, can be discussed with the two people in this world who care most — their mother and father."

Mrs. Ford said that during the television interview, she spoke "to the need of this communication — rather than the specific issues we discussed."

"My husband and I have lived 26 years of faithfulness in marriage," Mrs. Ford wrote. "I do not believe in premarital relationships, but I realize that many in today's generation do not share my views."

Fall '75 fashion story Sweaters steal the applause

NEW YORK — (NEA) — As days grow shorter and the autumn leaves start to turn, attention focuses on the new fashion season.

Every year, the coming of the colder weather brings a renaissance of the sweater. Fall '75 presents the sweater in its traditional form as well as in a new outerwear role competing with coats and jackets. From outside in, the sweater is extraordinarily important because it is a story in itself and it is an integral part of the layering trend.

Pile it on, layer after layer. With practice, you can develop a look of your own — practical and contemporary. It is the final, outer layer that really tells the fall fashion story. Blazers are still popular and quilted, Orient-influenced topers are capturing favor, but the sweater has stolen the applause. It challenges the very existence of the coat.

Knitted toppers range from short, hip-length baseball jackets with or without zippers to the sweater version of the big top with pockets, wide sleeves and collars. The latter even includes scarves, stoles, three-quarter coats and full coats.

Some of these tops are sold as sets but most are coordinated in groups with a selection of shapes to choose from so that you can add, subtract, mix and intertwine, creating and elaborate variety of combinations.

Keep tonality... coordinate, don't match. The result is a sophisticated, put-together look — the classic vs. the helter-skelter look of the past few years. Even where the ethnic patterns influence — Aztec, Chinese — the effect is more controlled, more an ensemble. The matching skirt and jacket or dress (knit or not) with a bulky knit jacket or coat are once again making news.

Vests are used to top off dresses and to layer with jackets or other sweaters. They are done in coordinated tweeds or prints and are especially designed to harmonize with the dresses or toppers. Even the classic shetland crewneck has returned allowing shirts or other sweaters to blossom out of the neck. These are stylish and attractive on their own but take on a new image when they are the ground work on which you layer a look.

At its most basic level, the classic jewel neck and turtleneck are important for day and evening. Another variation of the turtleneck which always has its followers and returns with more strength than ever is the cowl neck or the enormous turtleneck-cumhood. Most follow standard lines while others take on new interpretations — enlarging the sleeves to a bell or widening them and rolling them up a la chino. The new versions are constructed so they conform more to the body. This is particularly true for the lacy or metallic knits that are such an important part of evening clothes.

POUCH POCKETS REACH from side to side to give plenty of warmth and flair to this feminine acrylic version of a man's jacket (left). Young teens will be attracted to the letterman stripes and contrasting trim at neck and waist. Gobs of style can be found in a big-sleeved acrylic big top (right) with a French sailor embroidered on.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER sweater (left) is a natural for topping pants or skirts this fall. The bird-and-flower design, done in acrylic, is available in typical Mexican color combinations. Classic pullover gains new sophistication with graduated stripes (right). Perfect for dressing up with jewelry or a scarf.

From the flattest to the bulkiest, with delicate lacy knits in between, every stitch has been utilized this season. If it's knit, it's got to be good. Colors are low-keyed, muted, monochromatic. Rust, grey, mauve, forest green, dark navy and a spectrum of browns.

Prints are prevalent but the new news is the stripes, flame patterns, ombres, jacquards, intarsias and tweeds, tweeds! Still more significant is the texture: fuzzy cozy, cuddly. Knits are touchable and lightweight even when they are big and bulky. Find them in angora, mohair, chenille, boucle, single knit and double knit in wool, blends and synthetics.

Collect piece by piece and layer. It's a great look and one that can be reproduced at any price.

Reader disagrees with Ann's love for a Boston accent

Dear Ann Landers: You say you "love the Boston accent" — that it "has class with a capital K." Tell me please, exactly what is a Boston accent?

Do you mean the way Elliot Richardson talks, or Ted Kennedy? They don't sound in the least alike. Have you actually listened to the typical man on the street in Boston? I doubt it. It's revolting. Worse than Brooklyn or the Bronx.

Your humble stance gets to me. Surely you don't believe you must look to Boston for superb education! The late Adlai Stevenson was in a class with Sir Winston Churchill. Moreover, your own two senators, Charles Percy and Adlai III, speak very well indeed. Please, Ann, open your ears and LISTEN.—Beantown, Bah!

Dear Bah: I agree there ain't no flies on Sens. Percy or Stevenson but I am hopelessly hooked on the Boston sound—whatever it is. I happen to like the way Elliot Richardson speaks and also Ted Kennedy. (He sounds like Jack.) Mayor Kevin White's way with the language sends me into orbit. So do me something—that's MY hang-up.

Dear Ann Landers: After many years of marriage I find I can't live with my husband any longer. He was picked up by the police for indecent exposure shortly after we returned from our honeymoon. I nearly died of shock. Couldn't believe it. The judge let him off with a fine and ordered him to get psychiatric treatment.

He went to a psychiatrist twice and quit.

It seems the laws are very lax when it comes to this sort of thing. My husband has been arrested as a Peeping Tom, for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, exposing himself in a public park—just name it and he's done it. Of course all these arrests have appeared in the papers and I have been humiliated so many times I can't count them.

His family is mad at me because they say he is sick (which he is) and it's partly my fault for not getting him to a doctor. How can you make a person go to a doctor if he doesn't want to?

I'll be 50 next month and I want to live my remaining years in peace. I'm not thinking of remarriage, Ann, just a life free from the agony that has plagued me. Even our priest says I should get a legal separation. What do you say?—Pensacola Woman

Dear Woman: Listen to your priest. Maybe when you leave your husband he'll get the help he so desperately needs. Let's hope so.

Dear Ann Landers: I recently married a divorced man who has three young children. He tried to get custody but his wife fought it in court and won. The divorce laws in this country are a disgrace. Unless a woman is a prostitute or a dope addict she can keep her children even though the father is the superior parent.

My problem is this: What should his children call me? The oldest one is 10, the youngest five. I prefer my first name. My husband says it's not respectful and has suggested "Aunt May" or "Mama May." What's your preference?—Stumped

Dear Stumped: You aren't their aunt, so scratch that one. "Mama May" is all right if they want to, so why not leave it to them? I'd opt for May if I were you.

East delivers old 1-2 punch

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Here is a really tough hand from an all expert game. South plays a low spade from dummy. If East fails to overtake his partner's queen and shift to a diamond, declarer will romp home. At least declarer will work out a winning line of play. If the spade is ducked he wins the next spades, ruffs out the last two spades, runs off all his trumps and works the proper end play against West.

If East hops up with the king as he should, but shifts to a club, South rises with the ace, ruffs out spades, draws his queen of clubs and West is caught in an early end play.

In the actual play East did put up his king of spades, did shift to a diamond and was rewarded by scoring 100 well-earned points.

Why did he lead the diamond? He explained at length that it was the presence of the four clubs to the 10 in the dummy.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-665: Lisa K., aged 25, has some interesting sex ideas. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I've been married only three years but I realized soon after the honeymoon that my sexual appetite didn't equal my husband's."

"In fact, I'd have considered him a sex maniac if it weren't for the fact my married girl friends told me their husbands were similarly gluttons for what you call 'boudoir cheesecake.'"

"I've read women 'advice' writers ever since high school, but they never give the real outlook of the male sex."

"That's probably why your column tops the others, for women are eager to learn the true viewpoint of a husband, and only a man can fully explain the male outlook."

"Even a sexually promiscuous woman can only report the greater frequency of masculine desire but can't offer the real male attitude.

"For example, our Women's Club follows your column diligently and often indulges in some violent debates over your comments."

"So we decided to hold a unique sexual 'seminar.'"

"We imported a 'Call' girl, who was a college graduate and with a very select clientele of patrons."

"She wore a silk stocking mask, like bank robbers, to hide her identity, but described in great detail how she attracts and then keeps her clientele coming back to her hotel room whenever the men return to our city for sales or professional conventions."

"She corroborated your former statement as to how such patrons thus get an exaggerated idea about a woman's sexual passion."

"For she said she and other 'Call' girls feign a lot of excitement and moan and groan during the act, as if wildly passionate, for that excites the customer so he will want to come back to her the next time he is in town."

"Besides, she told us some of her wealthy patrons give her an extra $10 or $20 as a tip if she thus feigns wild delight in their erotic prowess."

"But I happened to ask her if she were married during her 'Call' activities, and she told me she was, at least at the start."

"However, she now admitted her husband had sued for divorce."

"Dr. Crane, maybe you can guess the charge he raised against her!"

"It wasn't adultery, for she had always kept him in ignorance of her daytimes sexual activities."

"No, he accused her of being a frigid wife in their own bedroom."

"When I asked her how that could be possible for a 'Call' girl with all the tricks and talents she had explained to our group of women, she laughed and said she was too tired when she got home!"

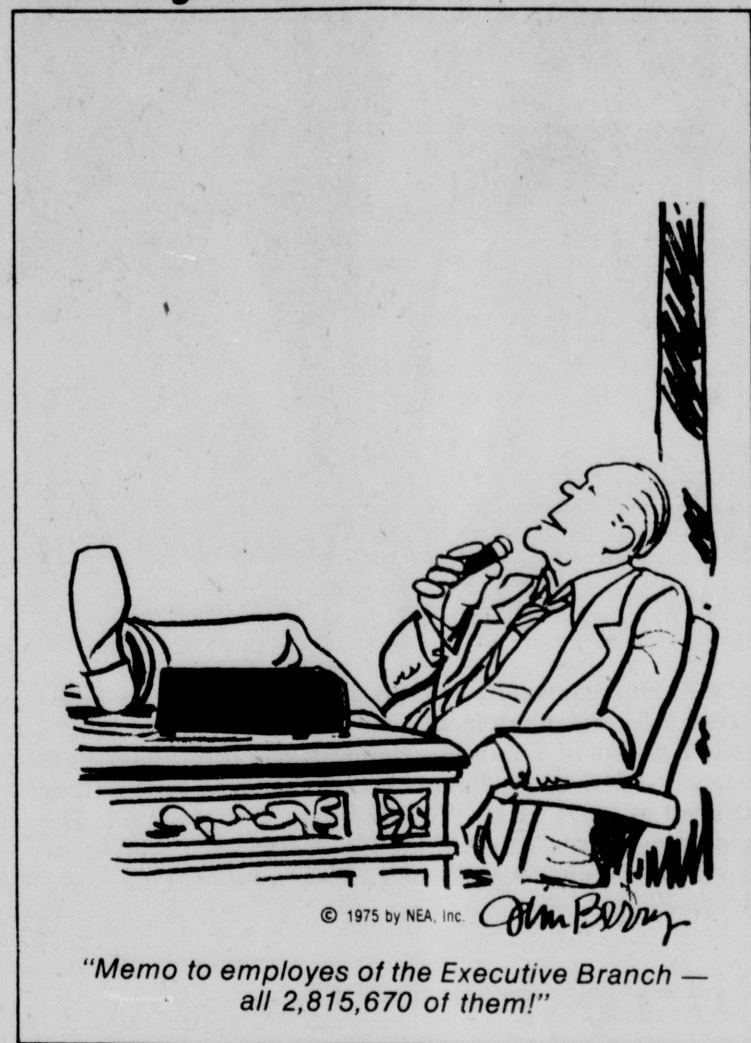

"Besides, she added that her husband never gave her the proper motivation nor handed her even a $10 tip afterwards!"

"Dr. Crane, I have noticed that a lot of girls during courtship also act vivacious, animated and enthusiastic."

"But after their honeymoon, they settle down to the routine of housewifely duties, plus rearing some kiddies, so they are probably as unenthusiastic as that 'Call' girl when she retired to her own bedroom at home."

"So keep prodding us wives to take that extra cup of coffee so we remain wide awake at least for 10 minutes after we go to bed!"

Any collusion in canning lid scarcity rejected by FTC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission staff has rejected virtually all the accusations of unfair practices and collusion leveled against the makers and distributors of home canning lids and jars.

Rep. Charles J. Carney, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Small Business Committee's panel hearing the FTC report Wednesday, immediately dubbed it a "whitewash" of wholesalers' and retailers' roles.

Liedquist told him the five FTC commissioners already had ordered a continued monitoring of the canning-lid industry as it prepares for the 1976 season, as Carney requested.

The FTC staff made a seven-week investigation of the canning lid shortage after some consumers and public interest groups contended the industry was guilty of wrongdoing.

Liedquist said the entry of several new manufacturers into the market—actually major corporations who expanded their product lines at relatively little expense—"should be able to produce enough lids (next year) to accommodate every household in America."

Production capacity of what until two years ago was a declining industry will be up Jan. 1 by 100 per cent over capacity at the start of this year, with more expansion planned during 1976, he said.

Production of broiler chickens will increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Producers of broiler chickens are gradually coming out of their financial tailspin and appear to be ready for a further step-up in production next year if current price indicators hold true.

Through mid-year 1975, broiler production was down 4.5 per cent from January-June of last year, with most of the decline occurring in the first quarter. Since last spring, prospects have improved, mainly because of some easing in feed costs.

Looking at the current situation, USDA experts say broiler output is edging above the low production of a year ago and the trend is expected to continue at least through the early months of 1976.

As with other livestock sectors, however, what happens to broiler production next year depends greatly on feed costs, demand for poultry meat, the competition from beef and pork and the general economic situation in the country.

But as USDA analysts see it, consumer demand for broilers should be stronger in the first three months of 1976 than it was last winter when a surge in cattle marketings forced so much competing beef on the market.

While plenty of beef is expected in the first quarter of 1976, officials say pork output will continue to be relatively small and that the general economic situation is expected to improve, meaning more consumer spending.

A "broiler marketing facts" report issued this week by the department's Agriculture Marketing Service said that wholesale prices for dressed broilers in nine major cities used as an indicator are expected to average about 46 cents a pound in the first quarter of 1976.

That would be up 5 cents a pound from wholesale prices last January-March, the report said. In the second quarter of this year, the average was 43.7 cents a pound. In early July, it rose to 54 cents and averaged 51. cents for the month, the highest in nearly two years.

As of mid-August, the broiler wholesale price had slipped to 47.7 cents a pound but was 11.5 cents above the year-earlier average.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meat imports soared in July, raising this year's cumulative total to more than 707 million pounds, the Agriculture Department says.

The meat is mostly low-grade beef used in hamburger and other manufactured products and is subject to import restriction under a 1964 law. However, formal quotas were avoided this year at the insistence of U.S. officials through "voluntary" agreements to hold shipments to specified levels.

According to the agreements, total meat imports are not to exceed 1.18 billion pounds, just short of a level which would trigger formal quotas. Thus, with five months still remaining in calendar 1975, the July figures showed that about 60 per cent of the year's allocation had been imported.

Tip leads to arrest of Dixon man on narcotics charges

Acting on a tip, Dixon Police officials executed a search warrant and later arrested a Dixon man on various drug charges.

Mark Pevy, 20, 1110 W. Fourth St., was arrested at his home on three charges. Police executed the search warrant shortly after 2 p.m. and charged Pevy with possession of marijuana between 30 and 500 grams. Pevy was also charged with possession of a controlled substance when drugs believed to be heroin, amphetamine and LSD were found in his apartment and the basement of the building. Chemicals and drugs found in Pevy's apartment will be sent to a crime lab for testing.

Pevy was additionally charged with unlawful possession of a firearm. A .38 caliber Rossi revolver was found at Pevy's apartment and he had no firearm identification card.

Thomas Wiggins, 24, Oregon, was being held in jail under $1,000 bond this morning, following his arrest early today by Dixon Police.

Wiggins was charged with possession of marijuana less than 2.5 grams, after patrolling officers checked out a white four-door Mercury parked in the Dairy Queen parking lot. Police woke Wiggins up and, while asking him for his identification card, they noticed a strong odor of burning marijuana. Wiggins was searched and a metal pipe, containing what is believed to be marijuana, was found. He was placed under arrest and taken to the Law Enforcement Center.

Rock Falls teachers to start suit against board

ROCK FALLS — A unanimous decision by the Rock Falls High School Education Association has initiated action charging the high school board with breach of contract. The decision was made at a special meeting Wednesday according to RFHSEA members.

An official of the Education Association said their decision was made as a result of the board's action Tuesday night when they voted to repeal an offer to send the issue of teacher's salaries to binding arbitration. Questions of the legality of binding arbitration on teachers salaries was the reason the board opted to rescind their original offer made two weeks ago. Louis Pignatelli, Whiteside County State's Attorney, and the board's lawyer, suggested the board rescind its offer for binding arbitration.

Members of the association said the board's move granted them power to initiate the breach of contract suit against the board.

Board President George Welch said unless some one higher than the stes' attorney rules different, the board would be acting illegally if it entered binding arbitration agreements.

No progress in negotiations were reported following a meeting between board and RFHSEA members Thursday night.

Freedom of information study begins

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A legislative subcommittee has taken the first few cautious steps into the thorny thicket of the public's right to know what its governments are doing.

"This is going to take a lot of study," sighed Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago, chairman of the House Executive Committee, following two days of public hearings earlier this month.

The executive subcommittee began to see the problems and complexities involved in passing a law that specifies what the government should make available for inspection to the press and public.

And, to the surprise of some of the members, the subcommittee found that all journalists were not in favor of a freedom of information act. Several testified against it.

"Any disagreement we may have is on the best way to achieve the most freedom of information," said Dave West, manager of the Illinois Press Association. "It is absolutely not on the need or desirability of freedom of information."

Under consideration by the subcommittee is a proposed law that would set out specifically how, where and what government records, reports and other documents should be available for public viewing.

The subcommittee was told that some 44 states and the federal government already have such a law.

The federal Freedom of Information Act, passed by Congress in 1966, was given added teeth in 1974 with amendments that require documents to be indexed for easier access, provide a 10-day deadline for the release of requested information and make available records of investigations that have been completed.

In recent months, reporters and other members of the public have obtained heretofore secret FBI files on the Alger Hiss case among others.

But is such a law needed in Illinois to help pry out government information on the state and local level? Some say no.

Sangamon State University professor Bill Miller, who was a reporter in Springfield for 24 years, said "in all that time I really did not have any difficulty getting my hands on any public record I wanted."

And C. L. Dancey, editor of the Peoria Journal-Star, added: "The existing system has worked as well as can be expected for the greater part of 200 years."

The negative feeling among some journalists to the legislature's passing a freedom of information act for Illinois appears to have drawn together the conservative, who opposes any government intervention in the natural machinations of the press, and the liberal who is skeptical of the General Assembly's ability to get the desired result.

Indeed, the mechanical aspects alone of a law setting out what information is to be public would be a formidable challenge to lawmakers.

Details would have to be worked out, for example, on what information would be exempted from the act, who would pay the cost of compiling, cataloging and copying the material, should there be criminal penalties for officials who illegally refuse to release information, should all government documents be placed in one central repository, how could a member of the public appeal a bureaucrat's determination that the information sought should not be public.

"Leave us free to fight our own battles," said Dancey. "Don't provide game rules that remove us from the battlefield and throw the whole thing into the hands of lawyers and courts and processes."

Road to Sainthood

The formal canonization of America's first native-born saint is scheduled to take place on Sunday in Rome as part of the Catholic Holy Year celebration. This 18th Century convert to Catholicism established the first religious order for women in America, The Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph. The order had 50 members at her death and now numbers 8,500 sisters. She also founded the first American Catholic free school and several other charitable institutions. Her canonization culminates nearly a century of painstaking procedures required for the declaration of sainthood. She was declared worthy of sainthood in 1959 and was beatified on St. Patrick's Day in 1963.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the name of America's first native-born saint?

Marijuana-sex studies win approval

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Southern Illinois University's board of trustees has given tacit approval of marijuana-sex experiments to be conducted at the school's Carbondale campus.

Meeting Thursday at the university's Edwardsville branch, the board listened to arguments for and against the experiments but took no action. Thus the trustees, in effect, decided to allow Dr. Harris Rubin, a psychologist, to proceed with his studies of the illegal drug's effect on human sexual response.

Acting on another controversial agenda item, the board approved an administrative reorganization of the Edwardsville campus dictated by President John Rendleman. The post of vice president for student affairs is to be abolished and the position of vice president for administration is to be created. Rendleman says the $41.9 million budget approved for his campus by the trustees mandates reorganization.

Rubin has won a two-year, $121,000 federal grant for his project from the National Institute of Drug Abuse. He proposes to administer marijuana to paid adult volunteers already using the drug and scientifically measure their reaction to erotic films.

Leonard DeClue, spokesman for the Christian Citizens Lobby of Carbondale, and the Rev. Ben Glinn, a Baptist, appeared briefly before the board to attack the experiments.

DeClue, who said he once smoked marijuana heavily and had personal knowledge of its effects, said test subjects will be exposed to psychological and physical harm as well as the danger of arrest. He called the project a waste of money, questioned Rubin's procedure and asked whether there isn't another problem more deserving of study.

The Rev. Mr. Glinn said he believes the majority of the Carbondale clergy opposes the project and DeClue called to the board's attention the opposition of the governor, a United States senator and a member of the legislature.

Warren Brandt, Carbondale president, answered the charges. Federal authorities studying the drug abuse problem, he said, thought Rubin's experiments of enough significance to fund and point out that experiments using humans are subject to rigorous controls. Moreover, they won't begin "without the legal clearances we expect to receive," he said.

Rubin said Wednesday he needs two federal licenses and one state permit in addition to a federal certificate he already holds.

Brandt raised another issue: "There is a basic principle of academic freedom here which is not far removed from the principles on which this country was founded." Administrative interference with research, he said, "would be a flagrant abuse of academic freedom."

Harris Rowe, a trustee from Jacksonville, took up the argument, saying academic freedom would be nullified if the board were to begin reviewing research projects. "If we attempt to limit this it will set the university back a long, long way," he said.

Ivan Elliott of Carmi, board president, said the question of the project was beyond the board's purview and that no motion on it could be entertained.

Walker restores ban on political gifts from racing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker has restored a ban on political contributions by racing interests to a bill that makes extensive changes in the state's horse racing laws.

The governor announced at a news conference Thursday that he used his amendatory veto power to add or remove numerous provisions in the lengthy bill sponsored by Sen. Philip J. Rock, D-Chicago.

The existing ban on political contributions by racing companies was not included in the Rock bill.

Most of the changes were made at the suggestion of Anthony Scario, chairman of the Illinois Racing Board, Walker said.

Scario, who unsuccessfully backed a different horse racing bill in the legislature, had objected to much of the Rock bill, but said Thursday the governor's changes make the measure acceptable to him.

Walker removed a provision in Rock's bill which would have allowed corporations which have been denied a racing license to set up a so-called paper corporation or subsidiary which would be eligible for a license.

This "would have allowed corporations convicted of felony crimes to sidestep the law," Walker said.

Rock's bill, which resulted partly from a Legislative Investigating Commission inquiry into horse racing in Illinois, permits racing on Sunday, if approved locally, and winter racing. It also reduces the state race admission tax from 40 cents to 15 cents per person.

Horsemen have said the legislation was needed to provide fatter purses and keep several downstate tracks solvent, thus preventing further deterioration in the quality of Illinois horses and racing generally in the state.

"Despite the problems in the bill, it has numerous features that will help keep racing a thriving sport in Illinois and make it less costly for racing fans to enjoy this pastime — without loss of state revenues," Walker said.

The legislature must vote in its fall session beginning Oct. 22 to accept the changes made by the governor. If it refuses to do so, the bill must be vetoed entirely.

Walker also signed a bill which exempts farm chemicals such as herbicides and pesticides from the state sales tax.

The measure, which becomes effective Oct. 1, will cost the state an estimated $5 million and local governments some $1.25 million in revenue, according to a legislative staff analysis.

But Walker said much of that loss will be made up by increased business to farm suppliers from farmers who currently are buying their chemicals in neighboring states where no tax is levied.

Another tax measure signed by the governor would substitute a sliding scale for the present 15-cents-per-square-foot tax rate on mobile homes.

Walker said the new law would impose a tax ranging from 15 cents per square foot on a new mobile home to 7½ cents on a mobile home at least 15 years old.

Another measure he approved allows homeowners to make improvements on their dwellings without paying additional property taxes on the improvements for four years.

ED WORLEY

Worley honored by ABC

Ed Worley, a veteran Dixon bowler was honored by the American Bowling Congress for the second time at this year's National American Bowling Congress Tournament at Dayton, Ohio. Prior to competing in the Team Event this year Worley was presented with a large ABC competition award plaque by Ed Bauer of ABC in recognition of his competition in 30 Annual ABC Tournaments.

In 1968 at the Cincinnati, Ohio ABC Tournament Ed competed in his 25th ABC Tournament and became an official member of ABC's exclusive 25 year club. At that time he has presented with an official ABC Lifetime Pass which entitles him to free admittance to all ABC Tournaments.

Worley is the first bowler in the Dixon-Sterling-Rock Falls area to have received these honors from the ABC at the Annual ABC Tournament. He has competed with the Blackhawk Lanes team of Sterling since 1964. At the Dayton, Ohio ABC this year Ed scored 580 in the Team Event, 509 in the Doubles and placed in the prize winning division in the Singles Event with 593 on games of 176-213-204.

Ed has bowled 17 series over the 600 mark during the 30 year period and has finished in the money in one or more events in 25 of the 30 ABC Tournaments he has participated in. His three highest series in the ABC were 666 in the Team Event in 1959 at St. Louis, 664 in the Singles Event in 1958 at Syracuse, N.Y., and 652 in the Singles Event in 1938 at Chicago. His highest single game in an ABC Event was 266 in the Singles in 1952 at Milwaukee. Worley has scored over 1800 in the All Events in three ABC Tournaments with a high of 1,853 on series of 625-592-636 in 1953 at St. Paul, Minnesota. He also scored 580-591-652 totaling 1,823 at Chicago ABC in 1938 and 666-509-631 for 1,806 at 1959 ABC at St. Louis.

Worley's combined average for the 30 ABC Tournaments he has participated in is 187 for 270 games. Ed's photo appeared in the July issue of the National "Bowling" Magazine published by the American Bowling Congress and his name appears each year in the Official American Bowling Congress Yearbook.

Tiant and Palmer are simply great

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Luis Tiant and Jim Palmer. Neither would be bad in a pinch—but in the pressure of a pennant race, they're simply great.

The Boston Red Sox, behind Tiant's gorgeous three-hitter, defeated the Detroit Tigers 3-1 to stay five games in front of the Orioles. Baltimore kept up with the Red Sox by beating the Cleveland Indians 10-2 as Palmer scattered nine hits for his 21st victory.

Tiant, especially, was impressive. He had a no-hitter for 7 and 2-3 innings before Aurelio Rodriguez lined a 3-2 pitch through the middle for a single.

"After going that far, you want a no-hitter, but there's nothing you can do about it," said Tiant after winning his 16th game. "The main thing was to win."

In the only other American League game, the New York Yankees whipped the Milwaukee Brewers 10-2.

After Tiant lost his no-hitter, the Fenway Park crowd of 9,508 gave him a standing ovation.

In the ninth rookie Bob Baldwin tagged his third home run of the season, accounting for Detroit's run.

"He always throws good," said Detroit slugger Willie Horton of Tiant. "But the way he pitched today, he would have beaten anybody."

Orioles 10, Indians 2

Baltimore first baseman Lee May whacked his 20th home run to make it easy for Palmer to beat Cleveland.

The game was spiced by a bench-clearing incident in the eighth inning. Baltimore's Ken Singleton took a few menacing steps toward rookie Larry Anderson on the mound after the youngster let go with a wild pitch inside with the score 10-1.

"I just thought he (plate umpire Bill Deegan) should have gone out there and warned the pitcher," explained Singleton. "I don't like that, because it's like inviting us to throw at them. He wouldn't go out and warn him."

Yankees 10, Brewers 2

Graig Nettles drove in four runs with two homers to power Catfish Hunter and New York past Milwaukee. Nettles smashed a two-run shot to cap a three-run rally in the first inning, then walloped a two-run blast, his 21st, in the third to give Hunter, 21-13, a 5-0 cushion on the way to his fifth straight victory and 28th complete game of the season.

me better tonight than any pitcher ever in the major leagues," said Pittsburgh's Al Oliver, who had one of those nights: three strikeouts and a double play in four trips to the plate.

Koosman, who had lost four of his last five decisions, stifled the Pirates on six hits Thursday night, pitching the New York Mets to a 7-0 whitewash that cut Pittsburgh's lead over Philadelphia in the National League's East Division to five games.

The Philadelphia Phillies, meanwhile, moved to within five games of the Pirates by beating the Montreal Expos 5-0 in a game halted by rain in the seventh inning.

Dave Kingman, purchased by the Mets from the San Francisco Giants in February, tied a club record when he belted his 34th home run of the season in the fifth inning. It equaled the most ever hit by a Mets player in one season, a mark set by Frank Thomas in 1962, the team's first year.

It also kept Kingman tied with Mike Schmidt, who belted his 34th homer for the Phils Thursday night.

Phils 5, Expos 0

Larry Christenson, 10-5, limited Montreal to three hits in the game which was halted by rain in the seventh.

The Phils got two runs in the first inning, helped by a pair of wild pitches by Montreal starter Steve Rogers, 10-11. Garry Maddox had a run-scoring single in the third. Schmidt hit a solo homer leading off the fourth and Larry Bowa scored the third run of the game in the seventh.

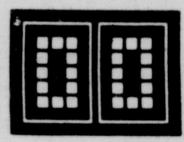

Dodgers 5, Reds 2

Steve Garvey's 15th homer backed the seven-hit pitching of rookie Rick Rhoden and allowed the Dodgers to win their season series from Cincinnati 10-8.

But that was small consolation for Los Angeles, which was expected to battle for the pennant in the NL West but instead finds itself 17½ games behind the Reds, who clinched first place last week.

Astros 4, Giants 3

Rob Andrews' tie-breaking single in the 12th inning drove in pinch-hitter Roger Metzger with the winning run for Houston. Metzger had walked and moved to second on Skip Jutze's sacrifice. After Ken Boswell walked, Andrews singled up the middle.

Cubs smash Cards

CHICAGO (AP) — "our chances?" said Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals. "Maybe if I said we didn't have any, these guys might start playing ball."

The Cardinals didn't play much ball Thursday when they were smashed by the Chicago Cubs 12-6 as their flickering title hopes continued to diminish in the wake of 11 losses in their last 15 games.

"You're in trouble any time your starting pitcher gets knocked out in the first inning," said Schoendienst. "But it wasn't all his fault. We just couldn't make the routine plays. We're not playing good ball and we can't throw anybody out."

The Cubs knocked Bob Forsch out in the first inning with a six-run flurry which included two-run singles by Manny Trillo and pitcher Rick Reuschel.

Reuschel, however, couldn't stand the prosperity and was unable to stick around long enough to gain the victory as the Cardinals kayoed him with four runs in the fourth.

All that did was make it close for a while until the Cubs banged across six more runs in the last three times at bat to finish up the season with an 11-7 edge over the Cardinals.

The Cardinals' chances? They still have six games remaining with Pittsburgh.

"We have to win 'em all and then get help elsewhere," said Schoendienst. "But you don't win any titles by expecting help elsewhere. You have to win 'em yourself."

Lou Brock opened the game with a leadoff homer, his third of the season. After the Cubs scored six times in the first inning, the Cardinals made a comeback.

They scored four in the fourth with Keith Hernandez slugging a two-run homer, his third of the season, to make it 6-5.

The Cubs picked up an unearned run in the sixth. They added three more in the seventh when Don Kessinger doubled in one and Jim Tyrone tripled home a pair.

Tangle with powerful St. Bede

Dukes look for their first win

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

The Dixon Dukes varsity football team will try to even its 0-1 season record at 8 p.m. today at A. C. Bowers Field against one of the most powerful 2A high schools in the state of Illinois.

Peru St. Bede will provide the Dukes' opposition and don't let the 2A bracketing fool you. St. Bede swamped Dixon's fellow NCIC school, Ottawa, 36-0 last week and during the season St. Bede will play seven 4A class schools plus one of 5A ranking.

The Dukes lost 44-14 at St. Bede last season behind all-state quarterback Mike Stuart, who passed for over 1,000 yards during the campaign. Stuart is gone but filling in with the 5'10"—180 senior Jim Corpus who completed seven of 13 throws versus Ottawa for 109 yards and one touchdown.

Corpus will have plenty of experience to work around as all other 10 starters on offense will be seniors including 5'7"—145 right halfback Tom Verucchi, 5'9"—169 left halfback Mickey Venegas and 6'0"—204 fullback Tom Samolinski.

Samolinski picked up 108 yards in 19 carries against Ottawa while speedy Venegas gained 135 in 17 attempts. Both scored a pair of touchdowns. Left end Rory Baracani got the other on a 36-yard pass from Corpus. Baracani is 5'9"—185 Ron Swengel while the guards will be 5'8"—174 Kerry Cruz and 5'11"—220 Kevin Wall. Mike Cahill (6'1"—195) will man one tackle slot with Lou Bertrand (6'1"—190) filling the other. Kevin Savio (6'1"—194) will snap the ball.

Eight of the 11 starters on defense for St. Bede will also be seniors including ing ends Rich Halkol (6'1"—170) and Steve Kunkel (6'0"—170), linebackers Mike Shields (5'10"—190) and Jay Knauf (5'10"—175) plus secondary men Bob Ebener (6'0"—175) and Bill Collins (5'9"—160).

Corner back Gene Pavineto (5'11"—180) and tackle Keith James (6'0"—190) are also seniors while juniors Mike Bacidore (5'11"—210 tackle), Joe Lisse (6'0"—185 middle guard) and Mike Andriano (5'9"—160 corner) will also get starting nods.

The Dukes will sport a couple of lineup changes as senior Steve Fischer will start at slot back in place of injured Dan Kopacz, who broke his wrist Wednesday night in practice. Jeff Webb will probably be the quarterback although bruised ribs may hinder his throwing ability.

Randy Hazelwood has a bad foot and either Mike McDonald or Gary Magnafici will probably get the call at tailback. Both McDonald and Magnafici are juniors. Defensively, Dan Frost will start at middle guard.

Fischer will take over for Hazelwood at linebacker to go along with Doug Devine. Mike Duffy and John Love will be inverts with Magnafici and Chris Mullery in the secondary. Injuries have wiped out the experience in the defensive backfield with all four of the starters to be juniors.

St. Bede ended with 276 yards rushing in 43 carries versus Ottawa for a 6.4 average. St. Bede scored eight points in the first quarter and added 14 each in the second and fourth frames.

A sophomore contest will begin the night at 6 p.m. Last week, the St. Bede underclassmen dropped a 16-8 decision to the Ottawa sophomores.

WANT TO BUY ANTIQUES

ATTENTION DEALERS & COLLECTORS

Midwest's largest antique mail order dealer buying complete estates or antique collections for CASH. D. Shiaras's Question and Answer Period On Antiques has been read weekly by millions of readers around the world for over a decade. D. Shiaras, Route 3, Box 66, Grand Detour, Illinois 61021. Phone 652-4278.

QUESTION & ANSWER PERIOD

QUESTION — Mr. Shiaras, our doll club has a near 100 pct. increase in many doll prices over the past year. Is this only local?

ANSWER — No. It is a condition that exists nationwide. If you need visible proof I suggest attending a doll auction in Chicago. You will soon find out that the lovely ladies prefer DOLLS over money.

QUESTION — Mr. Shiaras, how is art glass in its many forms faring on the antique marketplace?

ANSWER — I have noted a leveling off in prices over the past year.

QUESTION — Mr. Shiaras, lamps have nearly doubled in price in our area and yet the demand is strong. Have you an explanation for this craze?

ANSWER — Yes. Every antique is not as visible and usable as lamps. The new collector likes to use many of the antiques he buys. This explains the fantastic price rise in antique furniture, too.

DAYS may come, days may go, but Want Ads go on forever.

Bicycle sales and production begin to sag

CHICAGO (AP) — Bikes are beautiful as ever, industry spokesmen say, but the years have taken their toll on sales and production curves. Both are sagging.

"The outlook for this year," says one manufacturer, "is bleak."

In 1975, domestic manufacturers will assemble 7.7 million bicycles. That's far short of the 14.1 million produced in 1974, and farther still behind 1973's all-time high of 15.3 million.

Even so, the Bicycle Manufacturers' Association says popularity of two-wheelers has not abated. The group explains this year's cutback resulted from less demand from retailers, who found themselves overstocked about the same time the economy took a nosedive.

To deplete inventories, more than a few merchants are turning to the auto industry's strategy of rebates to lure consumers, says BMA Washington spokesman Phil Burke.

"The bike industry underwent similar problems that were faced by the automakers—high inventories and a bad economy," he said in an interview.

Some bicycle manufacturers have been forced into truncated work weeks and layoffs to compensate for the massive production downswing.

One is the Chicago-based Schwinn Bicycle Co., fourth-largest producer of bikes in the United States.

A year ago, Schwinn's four factories operated around the clock, churning out 6,700 bikes a day. They're now on a four-day work week and make only 3,100 daily.

"We worked at capacity from late 1970 almost through 1974," said Schwinn spokesman Ray Capparos. "The bicycle boom was phenomenal. We were going full throttle."

Capparos says this year is "quite a comedown," with Schwinn officials expecting a production drop of about 41 per cent.

But that comes after the domestic bicycle industry pumped about 43 million units into the market between May 1971, when the bike boom began, and September 1974. Foreign competitors added 10 million more.

The U.S. market for foreign-made bikes is in a similar slump.

Raleigh Industries of America sold about a half-million bicycles in 1973, said Karl Barton, product manager of the English-based company.

"This year we'll be off 40 per cent," he said, attributing the decline "without any doubt" to "saturation of the market."

Once the stock is worked off, though, industry spokesmen say production should rise again.

"There's light at the end of the tunnel," said Burke. "The potential bike market is immense. One hundred million Americans now ride about 75 million bikes—that means about 25 million people ride bikes but don't own them."

Capparos, too, is optimistic. "I think there will be a resurgence in the bicycle industry by the end of the decade," he said.

But Barton doesn't foresee a complete return to the boom years, when an adult and teen-aged market rediscovered what previously had been "really a two-wheeled toy."

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You have a lot of little bright ideas today, but it isn't likely you'll take the necessary steps to turn them into reality.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Don't try to save a few pennies while letting dollars slip away. Analyze what that "bargain" will cost in the long run.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You'll be anxious to get everyone together today, but after the crowd has gathered you'll wonder why you went to all the trouble.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
In debate you tend to talk yourself out too early. Try saving some of your strongest points for the proper opening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Seek out a co-worker who is persistent today. Unless you do, you'll leave a lot of projects half-finished.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You are susceptible to fast-talking salesman types today. Don't make any deals until you sleep on them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You're very good at giving family members orders today, but you lack luster when it comes to setting an example.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You're carrying a grudge, but you won't unload it when you have a chance, though you're usually not timid by nature.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Don't assume everyone will share expenses equally if you're out with friends today. You could get the heavy end of the tab.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Your course of action is clear-cut today. Unfortunately, too many will interfere and keep you from reaching your goals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Though you know exactly what you'd prefer to do, a stronger personality will override you if you don't have the guts to speak up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
It would be a mistake to rely too heavily upon others today. Even if they were to help, their efforts would be half-hearted.

Ch 4 has alternative to news at 10 p.m.

TV fans in the Illinois market who have wanted a choice between news and entertainment at 10 p.m. now have it — and it's prime cut!

The entertainment offering on WHBF-TV in the Quad-Cities is "Gunsmoke", the award-winning series that became an institution, now running from 10 to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The network CBS show recently went into syndication and after buying exclusive Quad-City Area rights to the series, Channel 4 received clearance to schedule "Gunsmoke" following its last showing on the network Labor Day.

In a surprise announcement the following day, the management released the revised lineup which moves the late evening edition of Action News to 11 p.m. That news period is now back to half-hour length and will continue to feature the same news personnel in the regular news-weather-sports format.

Following the news, Channel 4 has scheduled another full-hour syndicated series, "Maverick" starring James Garner and Jack Kelly as the gambling Maverick brothers. The show runs from 11:30 p.m. till Sign-Off News.

On Saturday nights the schedule has a variance with the jungle-adventure series, "Tarzan" starring Ron Ely, taking over the 10 p.m. spot. Action News and "Maverick" follow that.

DEAR DICK: Will you please tell me what has become of Red Skelton?—S. P. BALL, Bay Minette, Ala.

Skelton is pretty retired these days. He does very little but recently was on Johnny Carson's show, his first public appearance in some time.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me why Snapper, on The Young and the Restless, wears a towel on his head when they show the etching of the charters. My granddaughter says it is his hair. I say it is a towel.—MRS. F. YACCARINO, Cordele, Ga.

William Grey Espy plays Snapper, and he hasn't worn a towel on his head in public in some years. That's his hair. One victory for your granddaughter.

DEAR DICK: I heard recently that The Young and the Restless was going off the air for Tattle Tales. Is this true?—JEAN TIPTON, Lucedale, Miss.

No, it's not true. There was just a time change, that's all, and The Young are still being Restless.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if Betty White at any time in her career ever played the part of the mother in any of the Lassie series.—THOMAS EARL, Millville, N.J.

No she didn't. The Lassie mothers were, in order, Jan Clayton, Cloris Leachman and June Lockhart. And you may be able to pick up some bar bets on Cloris, but it's true—she played the part for 13 weeks. The story is that she was interviewed and asked if she used the sponsor's canned soups and said, "Hell, no, I make my own," and that's when she lost the part.

DEAR DICK: I heard recently that Alan Alda of M-A-S-H had died from injuries received in a car wreck. True?—M. McNEIL, Johnson City, Tenn.

False. Just another of those ugly rumors that ugly people like to spread.

DEAR DICK: It is important that I learn the title of a rather old movie in which James Stewart played the part of a brilliant but eccentric scientist. And he discovered that a plane he was flying in was unsafe.—MRS. BASIL DENISON, Sutherlin, Ore.

That was "No Highway in the Sky," a '51 release.

DEAR DICK: My friend said Charlie Weaver had passed away. Is that true?—MRS. EARL SELDEN, Lamar, Colo.

DEAR DICK: Is it true that Joe Flynn died?—MAX-INE DINGEMAN, Richmond, Vt.

Both those reports are true. Weaver and Flynn have both died.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know what ever happened to Ben Cartwright's oldest son on Bonanza. Pernell Roberts played Adam Cartwright. A friend of mine said he died, but I think he's still living.—ED CAIN, Ocala, Fla.

Bully for you. Roberts is still living. He quit Bonanza because he wanted to do better things and still acts as a guest star here and there.

DEAR DICK: Did they take off We'll Get By? If they did, why? I think it was a good show.—BRANTLEY S. BUSH, Mobile, Ala.

We'll Get By has gone bye-bye. They did 12 shows only and that was that. It wasn't a bad show, but certainly didn't set the ratings on fire.

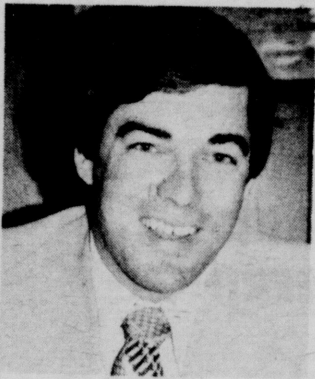

CANCER STRIKES AT ANY AGE

According to the American Cancer Society more than one million Americans, young and old, were under medical care for cancer last year. Although in the past the disease has generally been uncontrollable, today many types of cancer can be cured if detected early in their development and treated by surgery or radiation.

When the disease strikes, the resulting medical expenses could become terrific. Such expenses could be financially devastating to a family. Therefore, additional income is usually needed to pay for the more expensive types of treatment.

Rockford Life has developed a Cancer Policy to provide broad coverage in those areas where actual claim experience indicates there is a need for such coverage. This policy pays in addition to any other insurance you may now have.

If you are between the ages of 15 and 60 call or write for more information without obligation.

One starts every

A fire breaks out in an American home every 45 seconds. Tragically, many families who have fires in their homes don't have adequate homeowners insurance. Maybe their insurance was fine a few years back. But building costs have gone up more than 50 per cent in the last few years. So has the value of many homes. Make sure your insurance covers your home and everything in it at today's higher prices. Review your insurance with your Country Companies agent. There's a good chance he can save you some money with coverage from Country Mutual. Country Mutual—one of the Country Companies. We're a little different than most insurance people.

'Death Wish' breeds anger

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Brian Garfield is angry. The cause of his anger is the movie, "Death Wish." That violent film made a lot of people angry but Brian Garfield has a special reason for his wrath — he wrote the book the picture is loosely based on.

Garfield says there is a big difference in spirit between his novel and the picture which producer Dino DiLaurentiis, director Michael Winner and actor Charles Bronson made from it.

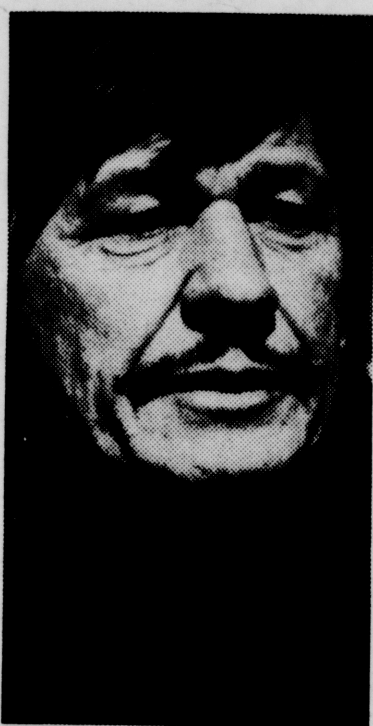

"They made the Bronson character a hero," Garfield says. "In the book, he was totally psychopathic."

In case you didn't see "Death Wish," it deals with a man (Bronson) who takes the law into his own hands. After his wife and daughter have been killed, he begins turning the tables and cold-bloodedly killing every hoodlum (or suspected hoodlum) he sees.

Garfield believes the picture, as it stands, could do a great deal of harm.

"I'm not saying that people who see it will immediately rush into the streets and kill people," he says. "But I think it's possible somebody who's on the edge might get an idea from it. Movies are very strong fare for impressionable minds."

"I remember reading about somewhere when 'Fuzz' was shown. That has a scene involving immolation. The next day a group of kids immolated a girl. Maybe, if they hadn't seen the picture, they would have mugged her or something, but I'm sure the picture gave them the idea of soaking her with gasoline and setting her on fire."

CHARLES BRONSON: from psycho to hero.

Garfield got his idea for "Death Wish" one night in New York when he went to his car about 3 a.m., after a party, and found the convertible top had been slashed.

"I was very mad," he says.

"I found myself saying to myself, 'If I'd have been there, I'd have killed him.'"

Of course, later I realized I probably wouldn't have done a thing — after all, the guy had a knife — but I realized there was a germ of a story there. What would happen if a man really got the vigilante bug?"

But he objects to what DiLaurentiis-Winner-Bronson did to his story. And he's taking pains to see that it doesn't happen again.

His newest novel, "Hop-Scotch," was written to prove that he could write a suspense novel with absolutely no violence.

The business side of the news

Witnessing the signing of Illinois Senate Bill 254 by Gov. Dan Walker is Dr. Richard Piller, Dixon, president of the Illinois Prairie State Chiropractic Assn. The bill amends the Medical Service Plan Act to include the services of a chiropractor in all medical plans in the state. Also passed and signed was Senate Bill 235 which amends the Workman Compensation Act. One of the major changes is to allow the employee the freedom of choice of physician, including chiropractors.

CLU key being conferred on Appenheimer today

Clay Appenheimer, agent for Country Life Insurance Company, will be awarded the coveted Chartered Life Underwriter designation at National Conferment Exercises of The American College of Life Underwriters in Boston, today.

The American College grants the CLU designation to persons engaged in activities relating to the insuring of human life values who have passed a series of professional examinations and meet the stringent experience and ethical requirements of the College. This year more than 2,300 men and women will be awarded the designation, bringing to over 34,000 the number of people who have received it since the College was founded in 1927.

Appenheimer started his insurance career with the Country Companies in the Paw Paw area in December, 1955. He and his family moved to Dixon in August, 1965.

Clay attended the University of Illinois, completed Parts I and II of the Life Underwriters Training Council, The Purdue Life underwriting courses and various home office courses prior to completing the Chartered Life Underwriter studies.

Clay is a member of the local Rock River Life Underwriting Association, The First Methodist Church of Dixon and Dixon Evening Lions Club.

The CLU program was established to meet the professional education needs of the men and women who provide life and health insurance service for the public. The courses cover such areas as: Fundamentals of life and health insurance; group insurance, health insurance and pensions; law, trusts, and taxation; economics and finance; and business insurance and estate planning.

Persons who attain the Chartered Life Underwriter designation are privileged to use the term or its abbreviation (CLU) after their name and to wear the CLU key.

Michigan General profit increase exceeds 60%

Michigan General reports net income of $1,124,487, or 27 cents a share, on sales of $39,197,264, for the quarter ended June 30, 1975. These results represent a 60.2 per cent increase in profits over the restated 1974 second quarter earnings of $701,936, or 15 cents a share. Sales increased 16.6 per cent from $33,629,253 one year ago.

For the first six months of 1975, net income was $757,283 on sales of $67,156,732 compared with a loss of $29,268 on sales of $58,461,759 for the first half of 1974. Per share earnings for the period were 15 cents in 1975, while a loss of seven cents was reported for the same period in 1974.

As explained previously, 1974 results have been restated to reflect the change to the LIFO method of costing inventories made at nine subsidiaries at the end of 1974, but effective as of Jan. 1, 1974. This change had the effect of reducing net income for the second quarter of 1974 by $479,444 or 13 cents a share and for the six months by $1,311,602 or 35 cents a share. In addition, the results of certain subsidiaries shut down late in 1974 have been reclassified as a loss from discontinued operations. The sales of these companies have been eliminated from the amounts previously reported.

Despite the rather slow start in the first quarter of 1975, the second quarter performance reinforces earlier prediction that 1975 will, overall, be a good, solid year.

The Highway Safety Products Group, with companies reporting record backlogs extending into 1976. The Hubbell Companies, Utica, N.Y.; Fosco Fabricators, Inc., Dixon, Ill., and Mike Hunter, Inc., in Georgia and Florida, have been especially strong. Backlog in the contracting companies reached $57.3 million as of June 30, 1975, a 17 per cent increase over a year ago with the highway companies continuing to bid on a number of large contracts.

LFD, Inc., the retail furniture chain based in Laredo, Texas reported a continued good performance, while Freed Furniture Company, the Dallas-based retailer, recovered from a slow start to report good, profitable margins.

Other companies turning in improved performances over 1974 were King's Highway Mobile Industries and Marietta Concrete Company. Despite a strike by the building trade unions in Dallas, Shahan and Son is still on target for the year. Southland Paint Company, which reported a sizeable loss in the first quarter of 1975, now is operating profitably on an increased sales volume.

Michigan General's flagship companies operate in a number of extremely competitive industries. In addition, we have been facing more intensive challenges during this recent period of recession. We consider our significant increases in backlog an important achievement.

Airlines want to pass on increases in cost of fuel

WASHINGTON — (LENS) — Airlines will face a nasty moment when price controls on oil disappear. The cost of aviation fuel is expected to rise by 3 cents a gallon, or about 10 per cent. Already, in the past two years, the price has risen from around 12 cents to 29 cents a gallon.

The combination of higher fuel costs and the recession in travel was responsible for the industry losing an estimated $115 million in the first six months of 1975; a year earlier it earned $138 million. Now the passengers are returning but the companies find this only a modest consolation when the Civil Aeronautics Board is so reluctant to offend consumers and their friends in Congress by letting fares go up.

Clayton attends FTD convention

Ronald Clayton of Clayton's Floral & Garden Shop in Dixon attended the 1975 Convention of Florists' Transworld Delivery Association, held at the Hilton Hawaiian Village Hotel, Honolulu, Hawaii, recently.

Highlights of the convention included the FTD Annual members' meeting at which association business was transacted, and election of new national officers.

Florists' Transworld Delivery Association is a co-operative association, owned and operated by over 14,000 retail florist members in North and South America. Through the FTD service, and the service of its international affiliate, Interflora, flowers-by-wire can be sent practically anywhere in the world.

Upon returning to the mainland, Clayton spent several days shopping the San Francisco flower and gift market, buying for the holiday season.

The industry had its worst-ever year in 1970, when it lost $200 million, but 1975 may be as bad.

What the airlines want is the right to pass on to their passengers the increase in the price of fuel which they now face. They have the support of the Administration and even of its price council, which are also prepared to allow them the flexibility to add the surcharge on some routes and withhold it on others. But there is talk of an industry-wide agreement to use 9 per cent less fuel, which would mean a considerable reduction in services, in return for further increases in fares. The CAB, which has not yet decided whether it has the authority to allow an automatic pass-through of increases in the price of fuel, is unlikely to look favorably on a combination of worse service and higher charges which Congress would find monstrous.

Yet the CAB has been bold — some think too bold — about expanding cheap charter flights. From the middle of this month Americans will be able to enjoy the cheap all-in package holiday long familiar in Europe (unless a TWA suit prevents them). Instead of concentrating on the businessman who values frequent and convenient departures and is willing to pay full fare, the airlines are to seek their salvation through cheap rates that will broaden the market. Holiday-makers, the supplemental airlines and the two scheduled lines which do a big charter business are delighted.

The CAB feels that it has retained sufficient safeguards to prevent the cream of the market being skimmed off by the charters. Most of the scheduled airlines are less confident and doubt whether this is the time for risky experiments.

Pamida earnings show gain

OMAHA — Pamida, Inc., owner and operator of 182 Gibson Discount Centers, reported net sales of $60,264,000 and $103,612,000 for the three and six month periods ended July 31, 1975, which represent increases of 17.0 per cent and 17.4 per cent over the comparable periods last year.

Pamida's net earnings of $1,689,000 and $2,676,000 for the three and six month periods ended July 31, 1974 were 11.6 per cent and 10.5 per cent greater than during the comparable periods of 1974. Earnings per share rose from $.27 to $.29 for the six months and from $.17 to $.18 for the three months ended July 31, 1975.

The company said that selling space for the six months ended July 31, 1975 increased approximately 105,000 square feet, and that Pamida has under construction or has signed leases on 19 discount stores which are planned to be opened during the remainder of this fiscal year. Seven of the stores will be in new communities and 12 will be relocations of existing stores into larger quarters. The 19 stores will add an aggregate of approximately 300,000 square feet of new selling space.

The second quarter saw the payment of Pamida's first cash dividend of $.05 per share.

Two sides on San Francisco streets

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — After costarring for several years on ABC's long-running hit, The Streets of San Francisco, Karl Malden and Michael Douglas still emerge with differing views on the city and the show. The reason is each man represents an entirely different style of living.

Malden is a well-married man. He lives in a comfortable apartment-hotel during the shooting season here. He also works hard and doesn't go out and play very much. Consequently, he can see only San Francisco's considerable beauty and he is in love with the city.

Douglas makes a point of living in a different section of the city each year, and this is the fourth for the show. He is single (although he is still with Brenda Vaccaro, but she has her own career to pursue) and gets out more and meets more people.

"This is the most snobbish town I've ever seen," says Douglas. "I'm talking about the old San Francisco people. They object to our show, because they say it only talks about the crime in San Francisco."

"I point out to them that, in reality, San Francisco is one of the most violent cities in the United States. But they live in their hilltop mansions and they don't know what is going on."

The company was shooting on the San Francisco waterfront, at Pier 36. Two ships, the American Corsair and the Pioneer Crusader, were tied up at the pier. Malden and Douglas were supposed to drive up in their unmarked police car, en route to discovering a murder victim.

The two work well together and have mutual respect and liking. But that doesn't keep them from disagreeing.

One area of disagreement is gun control. As soon as he has finished his scene, Malden turns his gun over to the prop man and you can see he is happy to get rid of it.

The veteran actor is all for very strong gun control, stronger even than what has been proposed.

"I think," he says, "that all guns should be left in something like an armory. People who want to go hunting would then check them out. They could come and clean them or do anything else they want with them, but they would never be able to take them home."

"I make a point of using and showing my gun as little as possible on the show. Mike and I disagree about this and often argue about it."

Michael Douglas and Karl Malden: two different styles.

"I know my view is unpopular with much of the general public. We did a show last year about guns — it followed a Saturday night special through various hands and various killings — and we got more hate mail than ever before."

Malden also has liberal views about what TV should be able to show — even including nudity.

"I feel nudity would be OK on TV," he says, "as well as anything else, if it's done properly. It's time for television to grow up."

He says he has watched strong scripts get softened by network interference.

"It's amazing," he says, "how our scripts get watered down. A script will come in and I'll read it and it will be hard-hitting and real. But, by the time the network finishes with it, there will be very little left."

"We have a new producer this year (William Yates) and it is going to be interesting to see how he manages. There is a story this year about rape, and I'm very curious to see what happens with that one."

The show utilizes as much of San Francisco's scenic delights as possible. They shoot all over the city. Once, Malden says, they were doing a sequence at the San Francisco Police Department's Communications Center. During a break in the filming, the men there proudly showed the actors a new gadget which could instantaneously get a read-out from the state Motor Vehicle Department headquarters in Sacramento. To demonstrate how it worked, they fed in the names of Malden and Douglas.

Immediately, out came the report on Malden — details of the car he owned, how it was fully paid for, how the driver had had no tickets.

Then the machine started clattering with Douglas' record. It never stopped, as out poured information about unpaid tickets and other embarrassing events. Everybody laughed — but Douglas. (Since that event, he has switched from a high-speed Porsche to a Honda, which, he says, can't go fast enough to get him in trouble.)

Each of the two actors think there are three reasons for the show's success, but the reasons differ.

Malden lists them this way:

1. Production values by Quinn Martin — "the money is up there on the screen."

2. "The accidental thing, the good chemistry between Mike and me."

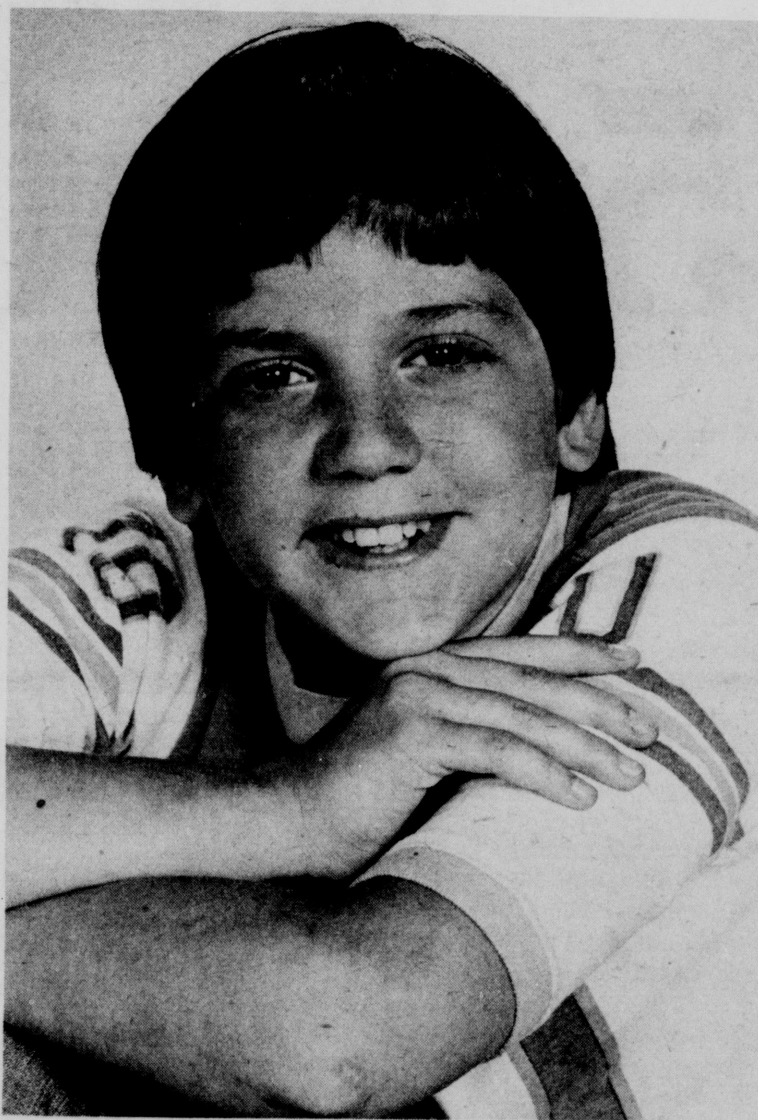

3. San Francisco — "it's such a beautiful city to photograph."

Douglas lists three causes, too. He believes, as does Malden, that the stars and the production are key factors, but, for his third reason, he cites "good stories."

Douglas is particularly busy these days. Besides working on the series, he is also supervising the editing of the movie he produced, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." It is being cut just over the bridge in Berkeley.

"I've been working on that picture four years," Douglas says, "and now that it's almost done, it's something of a let-

Bo Svenson is walking tall

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — This is a good year for Bo Svenson.

From out of nowhere, he's become a big new movie name. He has a major role in "The Great Waldo Pepper," with Robert Redford, and he has the lead in "Part 2 Walking Tall," the sequel to the big hit about the crime-busting sheriff, Buford Pusser.

And now there's talk of a series based on Pusser's exploits. Svenson says ABC has an option on the property.

"I might do it," Svenson says, "if it was written to reflect what I consider the most important element in Pusser's story — that a man in America today can be independent and fight for what he believes is right."

Svenson is a man of such independence. His own life reflects that. He was born in Lapland, in the extreme northern part of Sweden. He says he comes from a family of nomadic reindeer herders. When he was very young, his parents separated and his mother moved to southern Sweden.

"I split my time between the two areas," Svenson says. "Even as a child, I would make the long train trip by myself. Even when I was five, I would do it — from Goteburg to Stockholm by train, a streetcar to another station, then the train to northern Sweden. All by myself."

So his independence came early. And, by the time he was a teen-ager, he had reached an independent decision.

"I came to the conclusion," he says, "that life in Sweden's socialistic society was stifling. A man can make almost as much money not working in Sweden as he can by working. There is, thus, very little incentive to work."

"And I kept seeing all the American movies, which showed an entirely different way of life. So I began dreaming and planning to come here."

He worked hard and saved his money. Then he tricked his mother into signing his emigration papers, by handing them to her when she was half-asleep and telling her it was a form for school. When he was 17, he flew to the U.S. Three days later, he enlisted in the Marine Corps.

Svenson spent six years in the Marines. He says when he came out he was a man — and he had a few judo titles to his credit.

He spent his next few years drifting. For a while, he was a race car driver. His travels took him to Florida, where he heard they were looking for men for the chorus of a "South Pacific" production. So he decided to try it, even though he had never acted or even sung.

He fell in love with acting and has been doing it since. It's been a long, hard climb, but now he seems on the threshold of making it.

But, meanwhile, he's continuing the other half of his life's work — studying. Over the years, he's spent long hours studying and has accumulated a bachelor's and master's degrees in psychology and is now working on his doctorate. He works with disturbed children and plans to continue that, as well as his acting career.

Buford Pusser wasn't the only man to walk tall — Bo Svenson walks as tall as anyone.

Candid ad trend boosts unemployment

By JAMES C. ROGAL
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — "Candid Camera" helped put Norman Gottschalk out of work.

The long-run television hit has received the credit — or the blame — for starting a trend toward using "real people" in television commercials rather than professional actors.

"The fellow with the pear-shaped tones and the wonderful enunciation is just not in style anymore," said Eleanor Engle, director of member relations for the Chicago local of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

Professionals such as Gottschalk have been going out of style since "Candid Camera" became popular, according to William Ross, executive vice president and executive creative director for the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency in Chicago.

But for Gottschalk, a professional actor for more than 40 years who worked mostly in the old days of radio before moving to television commercials, the trend has meant a scarcity of jobs.

"I made my last TV commercial more than a year ago," he said. "I've had nothing since. They don't audition actors for the 'real people' commercials ... but actors can be real people. Hell, they are real people."

Not in the eyes of the advertisers.

"The idea is to add credibility to the commercial," Ross said. "Real people aren't necessarily as interesting or as trained as professionals, but if you put words in the mouth of a performer you are making a dramatization and you have to say so."

Under new Federal Communications Commission guidelines, a performer in a commercial actually must use the product being sold. Otherwise, the viewer has to be told.

But the premise that the technique lends veracity to a commercial is disputed, particularly by those connected with the performance side of advertising.

"I think it's dishonest because knowing the business the way I do, I know it's all staged," Gottschalk said. "If it were done for real, without prior interviews and staging and all the rest, there would be dozens of people around to see what was going on."

Nevertheless, the technique has been effective. Said Ross.
